U.S. GRAIN VESSEL

Reds Fire Shots Across Ship Bow In Labor Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet naval vessel fired three shots across the bow of an American grain ship when it left a Russian port Wednesday without permission after being tied up in a wage dispute, the State Department reported Friday.

The incident occurred in the Black Sea and the United States made an oral protest to Soviet authorities here Friday afternoon.

EXCESSIVE BEHAVIOR

The protest was against what the United States called the "excessive behavior of Soviet authorities in handling the case."

After the grain ship, the S.S. Sister Katingo, of New York registry, was halted by the three shots across the bow, it was boarded by Soviet authorities. They searched it and ordered the captain to pay a 50-ruble fine (about $55) before he was permitted to continue his voyage from the Soviet port of Novorossiysk to Istanbul, the State Department reported.

Officials said that according to the report of the ship's captain, Arthur H. Fertig of Wading River, Long Island, N.Y., the ship was stopped when it was 16.3 miles from land. They said this put it outside Soviet territorial waters.

A State Department statement said Soviet authorities "may have been within strictly legal rights," according to international law, to pursue, board and search the Sister Katingo, but the statement added: "The methods employed by Soviet authorities were excessive and clearly outside the norms of acceptable behavior." The department, based on Fertig's report, said that the incident arose because of differences in paying Russian stevedores.

The ship, Fertig reported in Istanbul, had the choice of either paying $3 per hour per man for unloading its cargo consisting of 32,436 tons of grain, or to pay 50 cents per cargo ton. Fertig chose the $3 per hour per man rate.

The Soviet port authorities apparently were not pleased by his choice and the dispute was referred to the Soviet Ministry of the Merchant Marine in Moscow. The ministry ruled that the difference should be arbitrated and that the ship should be permitted to leave after discharging its cargo.

The local port authorities refused, however, to clear the ship and Fertig left July 15 without permission.

According to the captain's report the Sister Katingo was pursued by a Soviet patrol boat flying international signals with orders to return. When the grain boat "failed to heed the order, a Soviet naval craft fired three rounds across the bow of the ship," the State Department said.

The American protest was handed to Georgi M. Kornienko, Soviet minister counselor, by Richard Davis, acting assistant secretary for European affairs.

Jurors Hire Engineer For $1,000 Month

Downing Offers To Fight Hamm At Heated Meet

By SAM HANNA Political Editor

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury voted 16-3 Friday to hire engineer Herbert Collier of Baton Rouge after two jurors threatened to fight in a moment of heated debate. Ward 5's Leslie Hamm protested a committee report recommending the employment of Collier at $1,000 per month on a two-year contract basis.

OFFERS PROPOSAL

Hamm in turn proposed that the Police Jury should consider a local engineer, V. A. Hubka, for $650 per month.

Before the hour-long argument ended, Ward 10's Robert Downing offered "to take on" Hamm, who accepted.

The exchange between Downing and Hamm began when Hamm said to Downing, "You wouldn't have liked it during the election if they held it against you because you are connected with Murray Hudson."

"You insist on getting personal with me and I don't appreciate it," said Downing, an attorney.

"You got personal with me at the last meeting," Hamm replied.

"You sure do talk differently at night over the telephone than you do up here," Downing said. "You get up here and shoot off your mouth. I've got enough guts to take you on."

"Let's go," snapped Hamm. "I'm ready anytime you are," Downing said.

Twenty-three civics students looked on as the two jurors eyed each other in silence.

Later Downing apologized, saying, "I want to apologize to the Police Jury and the visitors for losing my temper."

Hamm added, "If I have said anything to offend anyone, I want to apologize to the Police Jury, the visitors and Mr. Downing."

The squabbling began when Ward 6's Lloyd Coon, engineer committee chairman, reported that Collier wouldn't accept the original $800 per month offer.

"I can't vote in the dark," Hamm said. "This is the first time I've found any information about the man."

Hamm said the committee failed to contact Hubka, explaining, "I'm not sponsoring Mr. Hubka, but I think he's the best bargain."

But before the wrangling ended, Hamm withdrew his motion to hire Hubka, explaining, "I want it to be unanimous if possible. I'll withdraw my motion." Voting against Coon's motion

Heading South

Leaving this weekend for a visit to New Orleans is Roger Klam, son of Dr. and Mrs. N. Klam of 2769 Point Dr., Monroe.

Roger is working for his father this summer in the laboratory at Glenwood Hospital in West Monroe. He will enter his second year of medical school this fall at Tulane University.

Anniversary

A natal anniversary was observed Friday at the West Monroe City Hall. It was the birthday of City Clerk Harold Hill.

Getting almost as much attention as Hill himself was the big tasty cake — white cake, blue icing, with the words "Merry Christmas" written on with white icing.

It was brought by his secretary, Mrs. Floy Kilpatrick. Ladies in the office — Mrs. Blanche Josey, Mrs. Helen Townson and Mrs. Dorothy Roberts — chipped in on a striking pair of Bermuda shorts and golfing shirt, which Hill refused to model.

Arriving Today

Weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Terrell in West Monroe will be Terrell's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. May Wilson of Natchez, Miss.

The Wilsons are expected to arrive early today and will visit until late Sunday. With them is son Tommy Lee.

Goldwater Takes Control Amid Row On 'Extremism'

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL nominee Sen. Barry Goldwater and his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, get a laugh out of the button Goldwater pins on Miller's lapel which reads,

"Lyndon B. Johnson for ex-President." Miller was pinned as they appeared before the new Republican National Committee in San Francisco Friday. (AP Wirephoto)

GOP Choice, Rockefeller Trade Words

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater took over tight control of Republican machinery Friday amid a blazing party flare-up over extremism.

The presidential nominee told the GOP National Committee after it had elected his man, Dean Burch of Arizona, as chairman that as a candidate he will make himself available for advice and criticism from all Republicans.

FIRES BLAST

Even before Goldwater's appearance, however, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, an unsuccessful opponent for the nomination, had fired off a blast against the standard-bearer.

Rockefeller said in a statement that "to extol extremism — whether 'in defense of liberty' or 'in pursuit of justice' — is dangerous, irresponsible and frightening."

His reference was to a statement, in Goldwater's acceptance speech Thursday night, saying: "I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice, and let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Goldwater flared back with a demand that Rockefeller put down in writing his definition of "extremism." Told of Rockefeller's statement by reporters, Goldwater snapped: "Is it extreme action for our boys to give their lives in Viet Nam?"

"Would the governor fight for his life?"

"That would be an extreme action."

Goldwater went on to say that he would "like the governor, for my benefit and the benefit of the party, and the people of America to put down in writing his definition of extremism."

Various American presidents such as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt have taken what he would consider extreme actions "when defending our freedoms," the GOP nominee said.

In an informal news conference at the San Francisco airport when he took off for Phoenix, Ariz., before flying to Washington, on Sunday, Goldwater supplied his own definition of extremism.

"Extremism in politics is either fascism on one side or communism on the other," he said.

Of Rockefeller, he said, "He's so vague that I would think anyone who doesn't agree with him is an extremist."

In response to other questions, Goldwater said he thinks that if President Johnson is smart, he would take Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for his running mate.

Charles H. Percy, Republican candidate for governor who voted with Goldwater's nomination, joined Rockefeller in the criticism aimed at the Arizona senator's declaration on extremism.

Rockefeller said in a statement that Goldwater's remark "raises the gravest of questions in the hearts and souls of Republicans in every corner of our party."

He also said: "I shall continue to fight extremism within the Republican party. It has no place in the party. It has no place in America."

Rockefeller did not indicate whether the new flareup had caused him to alter his announced intention of supporting the ticket headed by Goldwater, with Rep. William E. Miller of

Bloody Boat Reaches U.S. With Cubans

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP)—A blood-spattered boat with 10 Cuban exiles aboard drifted into Key Largo Friday, and the exiles said they escaped after hand-to-hand battle with a Castro militiaman.

One militiaman and one exile were killed, the exiles told the Monroe County sheriff's office.

Three of the exiles, suffering deep stab wounds, were taken to a Miami hospital, two in critical condition.

One of them, Valerio Mota, 38, who suffered only a wrist injury, gave this account:

BATTLE

Nine Cubans persuaded two fishermen to flee in the fishermen's 20-foot sailboat. They left Monday and encountered a patrol boat.

They put into a small key about 10 miles off the coast and hid for two nights. A Castro helicopter strafed the key but hit no one.

When they decided to leave late Wednesday, the patrol boat spotted them again. It put out a dinghy with three militiamen, one armed with an automatic rifle.

The armed militiamen board the sailboat and ordered the exiles to sail toward the militia boat. It was getting dark and the militiaman lost sight of his mother craft.

He ordered the exiles to change course. Then one of the exiles grabbed the rifle. The militiaman pulled a knife and started swinging wildly.

In the melee, he finally was knocked overboard and apparently drowned.

The exiles sailed quietly away.

Skies To Stay Partly Cloudy

Temperatures may rise a degree or two today in the Twin Cities area with a high of from 88 to 92 predicted after a peak of 91 Friday.

Friday's low was 69 with 70 to 74 forecast tonight.

No rain was recorded at the Selman Field weather station Friday and prospects are not bright for any today.

Partly cloudy skies with scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers are predicted through Sunday.

Winds are expected to be southerly, ranging from five to 15 miles per hour.

THREATEN TO QUIT

Two Nations May End Cyprus Duty

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Denmark and Sweden threatened Friday to withdraw their U.N. peace force units from Cyprus if the situation deteriorated further. Their warning came as U.N. soldiers moved to head off a threatened clash of Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Two companies of Canadian troops were sent to the Turkish village of Temblores when Greek Cypriots moved in heavy artillery and prepared to advance on the village, in the strategic Kyrenia Mountains in northern Cyprus.

FIGHTERS MOVED

Turkish Cypriots moved fighters to the village — a cluster of stone and mud-brick houses crowded with refugees — after tensions rose in the area a week ago.

Late Friday night, the United Nations announced a cease-fire had been arranged in the tense village. The announcement said both Turkish and Greek Cypriot forces agreed to pull back to positions they held before July 14.

Denmark, in a message to Deputy Secretary-General Ralph Bunche at U.N. headquarters in New York, said its nearly 1,000-man contingent would leave the Mediterranean island if the military building of both Greek and Turkish forces was not ended immediately.

It called the building "contrary to the Security Council agreement that every member nation should abstain from actions worsening the situation."

WAITING FOR GOLDWATER

'Tax Fighter' Flees Revenue Collectors

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP)—Frances Briggs, who fled to Canada for refuge Monday with a declaration she was being victimized by U.S. tax authorities, said Friday she may have to return and pay up because of a lien placed on her home in Ithaca, N.Y.

Mrs. Briggs, 73, attributes the trouble to her support of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee. She is the widow of a Cornell University professor, Thomas R. Briggs, who died several years ago.

Mrs. Briggs crossed into Canada with all her stocks, bonds and securities in a shopping bag, deposited them in a bank and settled into a hotel. The value of her stocks was not disclosed, but she said she had "enough money to end my days in comfort."

She said she left home in a hurry after a "phony tax" of $233 was slapped on stock rights she was given by a telephone company, and a "velvety, voice" warned in a phone.

She said her house in Ithaca had a lien placed on it by the tax department and the only reason she left it behind was because "I couldn't dig it up."

"I'm trying to get that tax office to give me a carte blanche not to pay the taxes," Mrs. Briggs said. "But they're just not falling for it. I may have to throw in the sponge and go home."

She said she would most likely have to pay the tax if she returned.

A Republican, Mrs. Briggs said she felt she wouldn't be having this problem if Goldwater was president.

"But I can't wait here until November," she said.

DELHI CLERK VICTIM

Richland Parish Slayer Is Sought

By JIMMY HATTEN State Editor

DELHI — The Richland Parish sheriff's department Friday marshalled its forces to track down the ruthless slayer of a mild-mannered Delhi grocery clerk whose body was found in a ditch earlier in the day.

W. A. Jarmon, 38-year-old bachelor who lived with his mother and sister here, was shot once in the back of the head, and his body dumped in a ditch near a lonely country road leading from U.S. Hwy. 80 at Dunn, five miles west of here.

Mr. Jarmon's 1964 model car was found abandoned on the highway at Delhi.

Richland Parish Sheriff Earl Hill said his department had sent out alerts for suspicious persons.

Hill said his best lead was the possibility that Mr. Jarmon was slain by one or more hitchhikers slain while at the wheel of his auto. The .38-caliber fatal slug was found on the floor of the car.

Mr. Jarmon was shot at close range, authorities said. They said the motive possibly was robbery, the intention being to take his billfold and auto. However, since the front seat became covered with blood, the car was abandoned, and the culprit apparently made his getaway afoot.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church at Delhi, with the Revs. Connie Ward and Willie A. Dearman officiating. Interment, under direction of Delhi's Kidder - Cox Funeral Home, will follow in Fellowship Cemetery.

Survivors are the mother, Mrs. Era Jarmon, Delhi; a brother, Jewell Jarmon, Monroe; eight sisters, Miss Grace Jarmon, Mrs. J. T. Newman, Mrs. Purvis Gilley, all of Delhi, Mrs. Robert Gammill, Rayville, Mrs. Percy Futch, New Orleans, Mrs. Kenneth Irvin, Plaquemines, Mrs. Huel H. Crockett, Miami, Fla., and Mrs. James Lewis, Delhi; and 28 nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers will be Aubrey Boyd, Clint Robertson, Eugene King, L. B. Pickett, George Sumlin and Lamar Duckworth.

Richland Parish Assistant Coroner Dr. J. A. Ball said that the victim had been shot in the back of the neck and that the bullet went upward through his head and out his right temple.

The victim's billfold was missing. The sheriff's department is convinced that Mr. Jarmon was

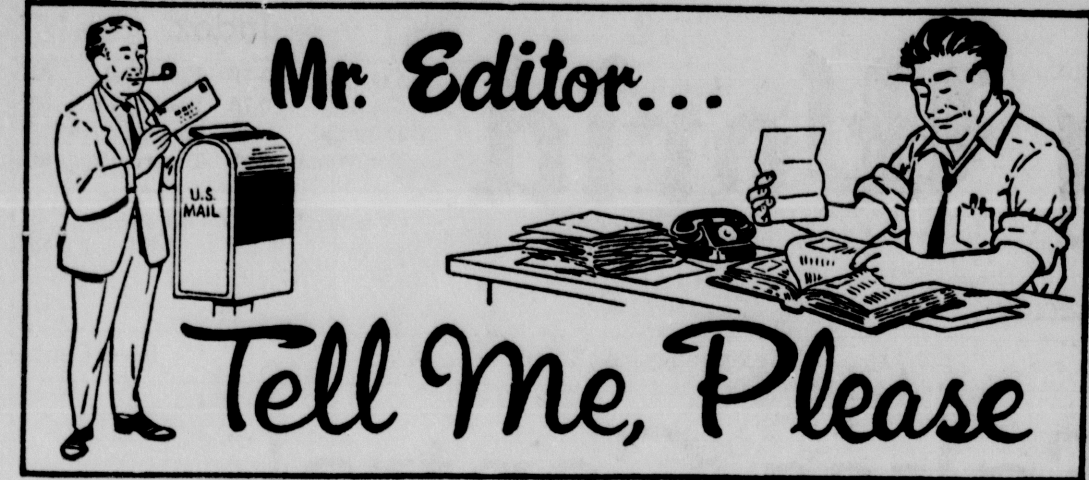

Bossier Police Capture Bandit

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — Police captured Joe Carlisle, 24, of Rusk, Tex., here Friday night in connection with the armed robbery of at least $10,000 from a bank in Wells, Tex., earlier in the day.

Officers said the money was recovered.

Carlisle was turned over to the FBI at nearby Shreveport.

The robber took a man and woman as hostages after robbing the First State Bank of Wells. The man was tied up and left in a motel at Mansfield.

What are the religious affiliations of the justices of the U. S. Supreme Court and are they active in their churches?

Chief Justice Earl Warren in the past attended the Methodist Church. Our Washington bureau was unable to learn whether he is a member of that denomination. He sometimes accompanies Mrs. Warren, a Baptist, to her church, but as a rule limits attendance at religious services to special services for the court.

Justice Black comes from a Baptist background. Justices Douglas, Clark and Harlan are Presbyterians; Brennan is a Catholic, Stewart and White are Episcopalians and Goldberg is Jewish.

No information was available on the regularity of the justices' attendance.

Why doesn't the city of Monroe put blacktop on the road leading into Westminister recreation center's ball park?

The street is outside the city limits and out of the city's jurisdiction and responsibility. The police jury indicated two years ago that the parish would blacktop it.

How old does a person have to be before he can get old age assistance in Louisiana?

An official of the Louisiana Department of Public Welfare answered that a person must be 65 years of age or older to be eligible for assistance in this state.

What is the purpose of the protest slips at elections? Can an illegal vote be protested under the new permanent registration law?

The blue protest slips at the polls during election are used, primarily, for handicapped persons to obtain help in voting. For a person to have someone enter the voting booth with a voter, the voter must present the blue protest slip showing that he is unable to vote alone. An illegal vote can be protested under the new permanent registration law.

Is it legal for a person to sell land without selling the mineral rights? If so, how long can the mineral rights be held?

It is legal for one to sell land yet hold mineral rights. But the rights hold valid only 10 years after which they lapse.

Is it legal for a person to hold two regular burial policies? Will both policies pay full face value?

Yes, holding two burial policies is legal. However, the two companies will divide costs of burial and will not pay full face value if expenses exceed the cost of one of the plans. If a person has two $1000 burial policies, for example, and cost of the funeral is $1000, each company might pay $500 toward meeting expenses.

Is it lawful to make a left hand turn on red from a one-way street onto another one-way street. For example, turning left from Wood Street onto St. John Street, between the old grammar school and the Ouachita Parish Court House.

Such a turn is illegal, according to Major Whitlow of the Monroe police department, except where indicated. The only place so indicated is at the intersection of Grammont and S. Grand Streets.

How are they going to route the children between Lenwil and Riser Schools? (Ed. Note—Riser is a new school opening in the fall.)

Morris C. Griggs, the Ouachita Parish school system's transportation supervisor, describes the boundary between the schools as follows:

West Olive Street to Olive Street; north of Olive to Rose Street, including Ridge Grove Dr. and Pearson Street, both dead-end; west of Rose to Smith Street; south of Smith to Violet; west of Violet to the New Natchitoches Road; and south of the New Natchitoches Road to Washington Street. The boundary applies to youngsters attending grades one through six.

For seventh and eighth grade students, who will attend Riser, the bus route includes all south of the Illinois Central Railroad to Cheniere Creek and south of the ICRR to Plum Street, in and around the Ransom School area. This includes the first to sixth grade youngsters in the Double Bridges and Puckett Lake areas who last year rode Rob Butler's route to Claiborne School, Griggs said. In the fall, they will ride Clinton Smith's bus No. 54-A to Riser School.

For Lenwil School, the routes south of Olive Street will remain the same as last year. However, none of the Lenwil routes will pick up north of Olive Street this year.

"And thank goodness," Griggs noted, "there will be no more school bus crossings at the hazardous Illinois Central tracks above Riser School at the gravel pits."

He invited parents to call his office for any information on fall bus routes. In addition, a complete listing of routes will be published in this newspaper in two to three weeks.

How are rental rates of motion pictures determined?

First-run films are rented on a percentage basis, from 40-90 per cent. Older films are run on flat rental rates or percentage, depending on the age of the film.

Why are doors locked and lights turned off at dark in the Sterlington post office?

The Sterlington post office is housed in a leased building; the structure is not owned by the federal government. Also, small

Soviet Probe Reveals Facts About Venus

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's latest space probe to Venus has shown that the change of day and night on that planet takes place 200 to 300 times more slowly than on earth, Moscow Radio said Friday.

"Soviet scientists have come to the conclusion that the planet Venus slowly rotates around its axis in the opposite direction to its movement around the sun," the radio said.

"The change of day and night on Venus takes place 200 to 300 times more slowly than on the earth," it said. "This has been established after the third series of Venus probes with the help of powerful radio transmitters and supersensitive antennae."

The probe was presumably Zond 1 (probe one, which was launched April 2. Its purpose was not announced but its destination was generally believed to be Venus.

Federal offices such as the small Sterlington post office are not required to stay open 24 hours per day.

Under Louisiana law, how old must a child be to be responsible for his own crimes?

A 17-year-old citizen is responsible for his own crimes except in such cases as treason. Then the age of responsibility is 15.

What is the salary of Ouachita Parish school cafeteria workers and bus drivers? Do the bus drivers get paid 12 months a year? Why is there a difference in salaries of drivers and cafeteria workers?

School bus drivers receive a set salary of $2400 on a 12-month basis. Additional funds are provided drivers who furnish their own buses, for meeting expenses of gasoline and upkeep. Cafeteria workers are not paid on a set scale, but are paid according to the size of the school in which they work, and the amount of help provided within the cafeteria. Salaries of cafeteria workers and bus drivers differ because of the difference in responsibility of the two occupations.

What are the locations and addresses of the Federal Reserve Banks in the United States?

GOLDWATER VICTORY

Laborites, Tories Jockey For Position

LONDON (AP)—Conservative and Labor parties jockeyed Friday night for advantage in Britain's looming general election from Sen. Barry Goldwater's nomination as the Republican standard-bearer in the United States.

Each claimed privately the other is more likely to be hurt. One Conservative legislator, Viscount Lambton, told a party rally that if both Goldwater and Labor party leader Harold Wilson win control of the respective governments: "Britain could well find it had thrown away its own defenses and placed itself under the ultimate protection of a state headed by a man who believed in direct and dangerous confrontation (with communism) and was prepared to put into the hands of front-line soldiers everyday nuclear weapons."

Wilson himself appealed to the British in a televised interview Thursday to stand clear of the U.S. campaign. "We've got enough to worry about without getting in the Americans' hair or they in ours," he said.

At the same time Wilson denied that Goldwater's nomination will affect British defense policy. He said this idea is ludicrous. The Laborite chieftain has said he believes Britain should scrap its nuclear weapons and depend on the United States for maintenance of the expensive Western deterrent.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservatives contend that Britain should keep its own nuclear weapons. Polls have credited the Laborites with a substantial edge over the Conservatives in the general election the government must call by the end of the five-year term of the Parliament elected in October 1959.

This election, expected to be set for Oct. 8 or Oct. 15, will be the closest to a U.S. presidential election since the two nations voted nearly simultaneously in 1924. The American vote is Nov. 3.

Wilson deplored the proximity, saying, "This is very serious because you have two Western nations off guard at the same time."

Douglas-Home so far has kept silent, although his party followers and the newspapers which back him have not.

'Lady Of Maine' Dislikes Talk Of Extremists

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine said Friday she hoped that extremism would not be injected into the 1964 Republican presidential campaign.

"I don't like extremists," Mrs. Smith told a Commonwealth Club audience after she was asked whether she agreed with Sen. Barry Goldwater's views.

In accepting the Republican presidential nomination Goldwater said: "I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. And let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

"I call myself a moderate," said Mrs. Smith.

IF WIN 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Wallace To Trade Votes For Pledge On States Rights

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace sees himself as a presidential candidate who, if he can't win, may be able to swap his votes for a states rights promise to the South.

He has said repeatedly that he hopes to carry enough states to keep either of the major party candidates from winning, and thus gain a pro-Southern bargaining position.

In that vein, he said in a speech Thursday night that if he doesn't win the election, "I'll give the votes I do get to the party that stands up for states rights and local government."

That could mean asking pro-Wallace Democratic electors to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican nominee. And some of the Wallace-Sponsored unpledged elector nominees in his own state rebel at that prospect.

When they qualified as candidates in the Democratic party last May, they were not required to promise their support to the party's presidential nominee. But they signed an oath that they would not cast their electoral votes for a Republican.

That pledge was invoked by the State Democratic Executive Committee, and unless the committee itself releases them, five of the 10 elector nominees said they are bound by it.

One of the others, former

Mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, said he could support a Republican "if the governor decided this was the wisest course for the South and Alabama."

But Lt. Gov. James B. Allen declared, "I will not vote for a Republican under any circumstances"—even if the Democratic committee erases the pledge.

Allen, a prospective candidate for the U.S. Senate next year, recalled that, "We all stated in our campaign that we would not vote for a Republican in the electoral college. It—the state committee—can't tell me that I can't keep my promise to the people."

The chairman of the state committee, Circuit Judge Roy Mayhall of Jasper, said he would refuse to call a meeting to revoke the pledge unless a majority of the 72 members petitioned him to do it. And the committee is dominated by the national party loyalist faction.

Speaker Albert Brewer of the Alabama House, State Sens. Pete Mathews and Albert Evans, and weekly newspaper publisher Edmund Blair of Pell City also called attention to the oath they took.

Another of the unpledged elector nominees, Jack Giles of Huntsville, declined to discuss it. Three others said they will make their decision later.

Under Alabama law, an elector can vote for anyone he chooses regardless of any pledge he makes.

Wallace meanwhile refused to say what he thinks about the Republican platform or Goldwater's nomination. Neither would he answer reports that he may withdraw from the presidential race.

But his office said "there has been no change in the plans" and that Wallace still intends to run in at least 16 states if he can get on the ballot.

Mother Fails To Converse With Daughter

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP)—A Keene, N.H. mother and daughter at Middlebury College aren't speaking to each other.

Laura Gallagher, a French teacher at Keene High School is studying for her master's degree in French.

Mother and daughter meet on campus now and then.

They pause and exchange smiles, but not a word can be spoken.

Students in Middlebury's summer language schools pledge to use only the language they are studying.

Merilyn, a Smith College graduate, can understand French but her mother can't understand German.

However, there are rare occasions when students are relieved temporarily of the pledge. For instance, Saturday is Merilyn's birthday.

Mrs. Gallagher and her daughter plan to celebrate it off campus and in English.

New Immigration Strategy

With the civil rights bill and the Republican convention out of the way, the administration can now plan its strategy for November with a little more clarity than was the case a month ago.

The Johnson forces apparently need a little extra going power in addition to the war on poverty. And some see this shaping up in the high priority the administration has placed on the new immigration bill. The Democratic strategists feel this bill fits the pattern of more votes in the decisive, urban areas and must be passed before the November elections.

The late President Kennedy had the same idea about immigration. He wanted to throw out the McCarran-Walter quota system and replace it with a set of new ideas.

President Johnson is supporting a new version of those same ideas. Such a system of immigration would give preference to persons whose skills are especially advantageous to the United States, close relatives of U. S. citizens and to those persons who could help in filling a particular labor shortage.

The proposed bill says that the main requirement for getting into the United States is to have a relative here already. Under the old quotas based on national origins, immigrants were chosen on the reasonable principle of admitting those who could most easily adapt to prevailing American customs and basic political thought.

But the Kennedy-Johnson administration's bill on immigration would increase the admitting of persons who find it difficult to adapt. It's for that reason that President Johnson is sending these important minority blocs a clear message: "Vote for me, because I can bring your relatives over to join you."

In addition to replacing the traditional quota system, the bill introduces some expert political machinery for the expansion of the entire immigration picture.

In practical application, the proposal could triple present immigration to a million a year.

Present plans to implement the bill call for a political immigration advisory board with two members appointed by the Speaker of the House, two by the President of the Senate (the vice president), and three by the President himself.

Plans also indicate the President can raise the present 16,500 immigrant ceiling on any one country by juggling quotas in the interest of "hardship cases and refugee problems."

Non-quota status would be extended to all parents of U. S. citizens as well as to their spouses and children.

Any sort of reciprocity would disappear from the immigration picture. If put into effect, the new bill would call upon the United States to accept more refugees than the 25 per cent ceiling agreed upon with other free world cooperating countries.

Senator Jacob Javits of New York, who has made a career of seeking support among minority blocs, termed the proposed bill "civil rights legislation for the world." Yet the moving of one's residence from one country to another — more or less on a permanent basis — can hardly be called a right. Immigration to the United States can yet be properly termed a privilege.

For this reason, the Kennedy-Johnson bill would tempt unscrupulous politicians to play politics with refugees and minority blocs at the risk of the security of the nation.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, for example, has testified that most of the hard core communists now active in the United States immigrated here from the Soviet Union and the eastern European "iron curtain" countries.

There is even a problem of what to do with sincere immigrants who have been conditioned by two decades of life under communism.

These radical revisions of immigration would do only one thing. They would enable politicians to make promises for highly strategic votes. Beyond that, any revision of the McCarran-Walter immigration act — based on a quota system that has worked well — serves no purpose.

'Moderate Justice'

In his acceptance speech at the close of the Republican convention this week, nominee Barry Goldwater made a statement which may come to serve as a rallying point for conservative thought in this country:

"Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. Moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

First of all, the statement takes the wind out of the labels "extremist" and "moderate," which have played such a heavy role in the political slang of our times. Everyone knows there are times when all of us must take an extreme position in matters ranging from schoolwork to personal sacrifice. Yet somehow this word has been misplaced in the vial of political poison.

Though the word "moderate" bears a relationship with lukewarm — neither fish nor fowl — it has become the equation of so-called "good politics." Yet can anyone in these times call for moderation in the pursuit of justice?

Frank D. Day, professor of police administration at Michigan State University, has given some shocking examples of just such "moderation" in a recent book, "Criminal Law and Society."

A policeman saw a man hide a suitcase under a park bench. He asked the man what was in the bag. The man denied he even had one. The policeman opened the bag and found it contained identifiable articles from a burglary. The court reprimanded the policeman and turned the burglar loose.

Policemen saw two men carrying a heavy object out to a car at night. The lawmen pursued the car and found a safe and burglary tools in the trunk. A building had been broken into and the safe found in the car trunk had come from an office in the building. The court dismissed the case on the grounds that the arrest was unlawful; it was based "on mere suspicion sparked by keen intuition."

In another instance, police officers saw a boy carrying expensive luggage. He said he was taking it to a friend. The officers took him into the patrol car and offered to drive him to the home of the friend. The boy finally confessed he had broken into an auto and stolen the luggage.

But the court was moderate again. It ruled the temporary detention of the youth in the patrol car was an illegal arrest and therefore berated the policemen instead of the youth.

The purpose of the law is to protect the innocent. In far too many cases in our troubled times, the legal process has been twisted so as to favor the offenders. As Senator Goldwater noted in his address Thursday night, this is especially true in our great cities. But the climate for this lukewarm, moderate idea of justice has worked its way into the picture of successful politics generally.

It's time for a return to true definitions and actions. It's certainly worth the effort as far as law-abiding citizens of the country are concerned.

King John signified royal assent to the Magna Carta by attaching his Great Seal to it. Signatures were ordinarily not used to authenticate documents until the 15th Century.

Here's My Ticket

ROBERT ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

Goldwater To Accept Johnson Offer Of Special Briefings

SAN FRANCISCO — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater is accepting those intelligence briefings offered by President Johnson.

When they were originally made available to Goldwater some months ago, he declined. Governor Rockefeller, then his leading rival for GOP standard bearer, accepted and had a series of classified briefings.

Now that Goldwater is his party's chosen candidate for the White House, he has decided to receive these important secret briefings on foreign and defense developments.

The White House is being informed of this, and an announcement will shortly be forthcoming of the assignment of a senior Central Intelligence Agency official to brief Goldwater during the election campaign.

Goldwater agreed to the briefings on the strong advice of his inner strategists, foremost among them Denison Kitchel, Ariz., and Karl Hess, top idea man and speech writer.

BOTH STRESSED that a presidential candidate "can't have too much information about what is transpiring, especially if he is running against an incumbent president." As a graphic case in point they cited what happened in the 1962 congressional election.

In that contest, in which the Democrats won seats in both the Senate and House, the Republicans were caught by surprise several weeks before the balloting by the war-threatening Cuban missile crisis — which had definite impact on the voting.

Kitchel and Hess vigorously warned against a repetition of this.

To emphasize their contention they pointed to the steadily worsening situation in Southeast Asia, which could flare into a full-scale confrontation between the U.S. and menacing Red China in the next few months.

Hess and Kitchel held it is vital that Goldwater be kept fully apprised of events to avoid making statements that could backfire damagingly against him.

THE TWO advisers also recalled the effective use the late President Kennedy made in the 1960 campaign of what he learned from the briefings arranged for him by President Eisenhower. This intelligence was of particular value to Kennedy in his historic televised debates with Vice President Nixon.

This factor particularly carried much weight with Goldwater in persuading him to change his mind about accepting the confidential briefings.

THERE IS a time — bomb tucked away in the new GOP platform that is certain to explode with a loud bang before the campaign is over.

This unnoticed political dynamite is the plank titled "Trusting Ourselves and Our Friends," as follows:

"Secrecy in foreign policy must be at a minimum, public understanding at a maximum. Our own citizens, rather than those of other nations, should be accorded primary trust. Consultation with our allies should take precedence over direct negotiations with Communist powers. The bypassing of our allies has contributed greatly to the shattering of free world unity and to the loss of free world continuity in opposing Communism."

Written into the platform at the personal request of Goldwater, the plank will be used by him as a mandate to demand that President Johnson make public the series of secret letters he has exchanged with Premier Khrushchev and other Communist leaders.

Fom sources deemed authoritative by the Republican candidate, he is convinced there are at least 16 such letters, two of them dealing with a disarmament proposal still undisclosed in the U.S.

OTHER LETTERS reportedly relate to contemplated new U.S. diplomatic and trade deals with Soviet bloc satellites. Certain congressional leaders are understood to be informed about this significant private correspondence. They have not seen the letters, but are said to know their general nature.

Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee have discussed demanding access to this secret correspondence. Some proposed seeking a showdown with the President on this. But beyond talking about the matter, nothing concrete has been done about it.

Goldwater proposes to do that by making a militant campaign issue of the question.

It was for that express purpose that the unnoticed but potentially highly-charged plank was written into the GOP platform on his request.

The late President Kennedy conducted an extensive correspondence with Khrushchev and other heads of state, among them Egyptian Dictator-President Gamal Nasser. Some of these letters will be revealed, it is understood, in a book to be published next year by one of Kennedy's closest assistants.

WITH THREE Negroes in his delegation, Carl Shipley, tall, able head of the District of Columbia group at the Republican convention, had to walk a very tight rope.

Personally for Goldwater, Shipley had his hands full keeping the Negro trio from bolting. He succeeded, thanks to a combination of adroit maneuvering and cajoling rillery, as follows:

Noticing the three Negro delegates sitting together on a sofa in the D.C. headquarters, Shipley strode over to them and exclaimed reprovingly, "Come on now, cut out this segregation. Break it. We don't allow that here. You will have to integrate, even if it does mean getting up and moving around."

The three delegates laughed heartily, rose and mingled with the other members.

ONE of the first invitations accepted by the newly nominated Republican standard bearer was to an annual event next week of California's famed and ultra-exclusive Bohemian Club. Senator Goldwater plans to call on former President Hoover the next time the Arizona is in New York. Hoover, 90 and ailing, refrained from expressing any preference during the pre-convention clash. But he and Goldwater have been corresponding for a long time.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Expect New Attack On GOP Contender

You will see during the next period a gradual reconstruction of the Goldwater image by his critics, here and abroad. For a long period it was possible to dismiss the movement as composed of the underside of American life. Increasingly that has become difficult. And now, with the nomination of Senator Goldwater, something a little bit different, something a little bit more convincing, must be produced.

The Big Lie is not ineffective, but it tends to wear down under attrition. Only for so long will the lady continue to believe that her neighbor next door, the one with the Goldwater bumper sticker, is a kook, a warmonger, a neurotic, a racist, and a misanthrope. With Goldwater stickers due to bust out all over, an alternative explanation is in order. San Francisco is buzzing with thesis. Who will come up with good, modern, fashionable persuasive, anti-Goldwater explanation?

I NOMINATE Mr. Theodore White, the excellent journalist and devoted Liberal who wrote the best-selling book about the Making of the Presidency of John F. Kennedy. Mr. White, thinking perhaps to repeat his journalistic triumph, closely followed the doings of William Scranton, in the course of which he spent many hours studying Scranton's adversary and his movement — just as, to qualify as an expert on Kennedy, Mr. White found it necessary to become an expert on Nixon.

Apparently Mr. White began by believing that the Goldwater movement was composed of a bunch of kooks plus one or two eccentric intellectuals, a bunch of disgruntled businessmen, etc., etc. Now, since Goldwater's nomination and the unmaking of Mr. Scranton's, Mr. White is playing with a sterner and more elaborate thesis. As I understand it it goes something like this: Far from being a bunch of kooky, amateur politicians one had imagined were running the Goldwater campaign, they have proved to be cold, ruthless professionals, who know exactly what they want and who, moreover, may just possibly even know how to get it. These are men who truly want to transform America, and they have in Goldwater a good-natured, slightly indolent, not altogether conscious front-man who is excellent cover for their labyrinthine machinations. Here are men truly to be afraid of.

THE ARE NOT Birchites, or anything so politically vulgar or vulnerable. They are men who have so perfectly blended into the natural political scenery of the republic that they have not become truly discernible; and now the Republicans find themselves on the brink of the discovery of a new and potent political animal, species fascisti: these are men who must not be laughed at, because they and their adherents are as pleasant and as normal-looking as the lady next door. But as you love your country, keep your eyes on them.

I am slightly elaborating on the thesis, from delicate little seeds sewn in my mind in a casual conversation, but my extrapolations are straight as the trunk of a tree, I do believe. I rejoice as the reaction of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, who when the thesis was tried out on her remarked, "That's the way the kooky crumbles."

INDEED THE kook-theory has crumbled and, nature abhors a vacuum, some other theory of how come the Republican Party is entering upon the present mania, is absolutely necessary to take its place. Absolutely necessary for so long, which one supposes will be forever, as Goldwater's critics refuse to examine the possibility that what the Goldwater people want is a fresh start in the 20th century, a desire to rechart the destiny of this country so as to avoid engulfment by what Dwight Eisenhower characterized by Nikita Khrushchev as that condition which will prevail when our grandchildren are grown up.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Senator's Victory Seen As 'Amazing'

SAN FRANCISCO — Myths, both good and bad, have festooned the public life of Senator Barry Goldwater. Now, at the moment of his triumph in this city of sparkle, a new myth is coming to flower — that he won the nomination by default. It has already been given its debut by one of those columnists, exoriated by General Eisenhower, "who couldn't care less about the good of the (Republican) party."

It is a myth designed to rob Senator Goldwater of credit for one of the most amazing political achievements in modern politics. If this were the only motive, there would be little point in giving it the dignity of rebuttal. But Mr. Goldwater is minimized not solely because of himself. He represents a movement which has angered the political establishment and which now drives it to panic.

IN 1960, Senator Goldwater had a small band of followers, dedicated and doctrinaire. Writing from the last convention in Chicago, I rather condescendingly described their youth, their fervor, and their political innocence. They did not know the obstacles and pitfalls ahead — and this may have been the root cause for their success.

All the rules have been violated by the Goldwater nomination. He comes from a small state with but a handful of delegates — 16 to be exact. Conventions have always gone for candidates from the vote-heavy states. As some supposedly non-prejudiced establishment liberals pointed out incessantly, he was handicapped by whatever fraction of his blood is Jewish — as if the United States were Hitler Germany.

HE DID NOT hedge his words or his votes — a demerit for politicians, we are told. And he was forthrightly conservative. This conservatism, the pundits had convinced large numbers of the electorate, ran counter to the political bent of the voters, who presumably squat in the middle of the road.

Most damaging of all, he had taken a stand four — square against the powerful eastern interests which have, since 1940, ridden herd on Republican party conventions. The late Robert A. Taft, who had confronted the money — heavy but vote-light "kingmakers," lost out to them three times, though he was "Mr. Republican" to the rank and file of his party. How, then, could Barry Goldwater make it?

Senator Goldwater was aware of these obstacles. And he was inhibited in his relations with those who have helped propel him to San Francisco and the nomination by his deep desire to remain in the United States Senate. There is no lust for power in the junior senator from Arizona.

ONCE HE had declared himself, he was not yet sure that he had made the right decision. He was sick at heart over the filth that had poured down on him from the vicious and hysterical who accused him of President Kennedy's assassination. He wanted no more of the misrepresentation which, at the Cow Palace, led General Eisenhower to berate certain segments of the American press.

All Senator Goldwater could see for him was the enthusiasm of his supporters and the amateur efforts of a small but untested organization launched by Peter O'Donnell and Clifton White. Against this was pitted the vastly well-heeled machine already in existence and working mightily for Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, the still — active pockets of strength for Richard Nixon, and an itching host of "favorite sons."

The Rockefeller campaign, with large assets from the business community, was hard fought and professionally managed. By all the rules of politics, the New York governor should have clobbered Senator Goldwater. He did not, for one little reason:

EVERYONE was against Barry, but the Republican party.

That simple, yet complex, reason explains his victory in San Francisco: the Republican voters and officials were for Barry because they wanted their party back. Of course, they subscribed to his principles, though not mechanically and in the entirety. And this is why all the blandishments in the world failed to budge the delegates, why Barry Goldwater was able to overcome the eastern behemoth.

IN THESE closing hours of the convention, there has been much bitter talk about the failure of Mr. Nixon, Governor George Romney of Michigan, or Governor Scranton to realize that the Goldwater bandwagon had begun to roll long before the June 2 California primary. But this is unfair to them. They were operating by the old tried-and-true political rules. They took their estimate of the situation and came up with the same answers that the pundits were offering. Unfortunately for them they were wrong.

What it got right down to was this: to the delegates, Barry was their boy.

Officials End Crash Hearing At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A federal flight test expert told the Civil Aeronautics Board hearing Friday that DC-8 jetliners have poor stability when climbing at high speeds.

The hearing ended after three days of inquiry into the causes of a Feb. 25 crash in Lake Pontchartrain in which 58 persons were killed.

Roy Peterson, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency's flight test branch for the West Region, testified that tests on DC-8s stability with special emphasis on an automatic pilot instrument, have been underway ever since the New Orleans crash.

Peterson said that if the pitch trim compensator—a device to prevent nosedown at high speeds—is out of order, the pilot has about three seconds to correct it manually before the plane loses equilibrium.

Negroes Picket Police Station After Shooting

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 200 teenagers, most of them Negro, demonstrated Friday near an East Side Manhattan police station shouting "kill the cops must go" and demanding an independent investigation of Thursday's shooting of a 15-year-old Negro student.

The student, James Powell, was shot and killed on a sidewalk across the street from the Robert Wagner Junior High School in a residential district by Police Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan. The police officer said Powell came at him with a knife when he told Powell to stop banging on a door with a garbage pail lid.

The shooting touched off a near riot of several hundred students which took 150 riot squad members more than an hour to quell. The students claimed that Powell's pocket knife had not been opened, that Gilligan shot the youth twice after he was down, and that a white building superintendent had touched off the incident by spraying the boys with a hose.

Jurors Hire Engineer For $1,000 Month

to hire Collier were Ward 1's John Wilhite, Ward 7's W. O. Roberts and Ward 8's J. H. Brown.

Collier, contacted later by president T. W. Humphries, accepted the post as parish engineer to head up the highway department. He will begin work after August 15th, Humphries said.

Humphries recognized Coon at the outset of the meeting as Coon gave his committee report, seconded by Downing. But when Hamm asked for the floor to offer a substitute motion for Hubka, Humphries said, "I don't know whether you are in order. Is he, Mr. Downing?"

Downing said that since the intent of the special meeting was to consider Collier's employment he didn't think Hamm would be in order.

But Hamm said, "My interpretation of this is just as good as Mr. Downing's."

Hamm asked Humphries to read the call for the meeting, pointing out that the call was to "consider the employment of an engineer," not to consider any particular applicant.

When Hamm forced his substitute motion to the floor, Downing offered another substitute to go into executive session, saying, "We're going to discuss personalities and we don't want what we've got to say to appear in print."

But Ward 8's M. W. Montgomery offered a third substitute motion to consider the matter in open session.

With four motions on the floor at once, Ward 10's John Ensminger, jumping to his feet said, "There's no need in this. These people are getting confused. Let's vote on the motion that Downing made."

With this suggestion, the roll was called on the motion simply to go into executive session—an effort to clear the confusion for the jurors.

The vote was 5-13 on Downing's motion. Jurors voting to go behind closed doors were Downing, Wilhite, Coon, Humphries and Ward 10's A. E. Montgomery Jr.

Downing said he thought the Police Jury should operate on the committee system and accept the committee's report, but Hamm contended the committee narrowed the 14 applicants down to three, including two local engineers.

"I don't want to vote in the dark," said Ward 5's Arlan Rawls.

Rawls said he wished the Police Jury would have a meeting to see the applicants, but Downing said, "This body is too big for that. We've got to operate on the committee system."

Humphries explained he met Collier and so did Downing and Montgomery of Ward 10.

The debate ended when Hamm withdrew his substitute motion for Hubka.

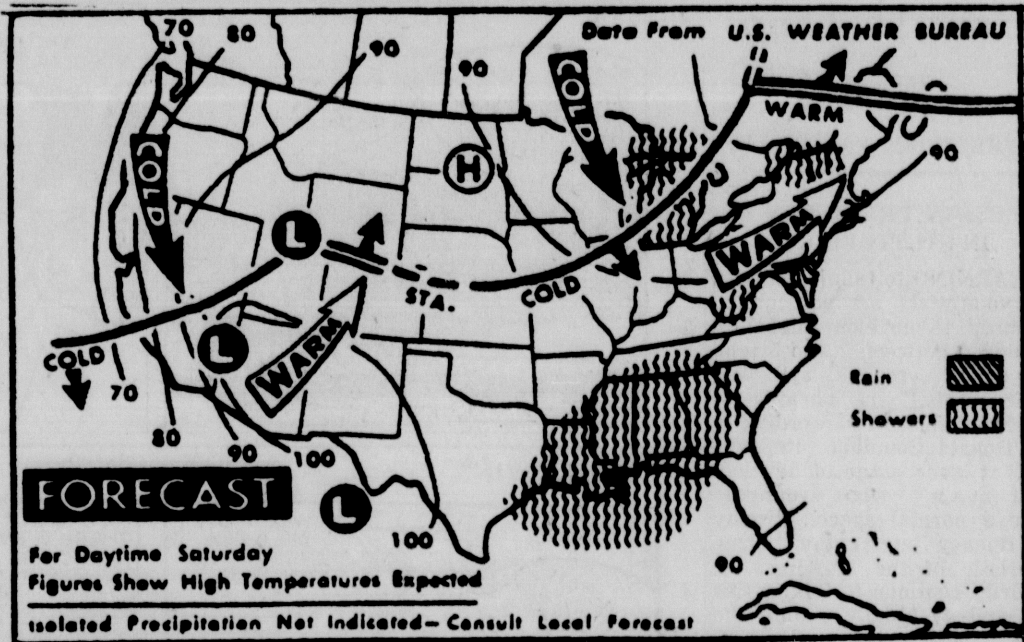

After the session ended, Downing and Hamm laughed as they shook hands.

"We're good friends," Downing said.

Richard Burton Walks Off Stage During 'Hamlet'

NEW YORK (AP)—Richard Burton walked off stage in the middle of a performance of "Hamlet" before a packed house at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre on Friday night, reportedly because of a painful attack of bursitis.

The Welsh actor went to his Park Avenue hotel suite without giving any indication whether he would return to the role Saturday night.

At the same time he left the stage, detectives were searching the theater for a reported bomb.

None was found, and management said the performance was halted because of Burton's seizure, not because of the bomb hoax.

The play had run an hour and 10 minutes before Burton felt the pain in his right shoulder was unbearable.

Hume Cronyn, another member of the cast, said Burton has been troubled by the ailment for some time.

MUSIC DURING WARS

Soviets Confiscate Violin Of Peasant

MOSCOW (AP)—For 43 years, Alexei Medushenko has made sweet sounds on his old violin. But now the sounds have died—the state has Alexei's violin.

The story of Alexei and his fiddle goes back to 1921 when civil war gripped the fledgling Soviet state.

Alexei, then 24, was fighting for the Reds. His comrades knew him as a maker of music, and they called him Muzikanta—the Musician.

One day Alexei, for his courage in battle, was presented with a violin by his squadron commander.

After the war Alexei went back to his village, Rozanovka, with his violin, and through the years he played it often.

He went to war again against the Nazis and took his violin in a bag. And when that war was over he went back to his village again, with his violin. He made sweet music and grew old and taught his grandson to play.

The story of Alexei and his music spread and one day a newspaperman came to see him. Alexei showed the reporter his old violin.

Something about it took the reporter's eye—the date 1645 and some words in Latin.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, heard about the strange violin and instigated more inquiries. Some officials trooped down to see Alexei and his violin.

They read the inscription: "Nicolo Amati, Cremona, 1645."

Red Gunfire Kills U.S. Man In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist Viet Cong gunfire Friday killed a U.S. Army enlisted man who was with government forces embarking on a new drive against guerrillas in the Mekong River delta.

The American was killed near the delta provincial capital of Can Tho, 80 miles southwest of Saigon. A total 159 U.S. servicemen now have been killed in Vietnam since December 1951. The latest victim was identified as Pfc. Paul R. Heltsley III, Akron, Ohio.

A Viet Cong ambush Thursday wounded five U.S. Seabees riding in a station wagon five miles from the provincial capital of Ca Mau, 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

Four of the Seabees received only minor wounds. The fifth was in a Saigon hospital but his condition was not serious.

I will appreciate the privilege of keeping your home pest free. 12 YEARS ON THE JOB EXPERIENCE.

Passman Says LBJ's Poverty Bill Cruel Hoax

The administration's proposed "so-called anti-poverty bill" is, in the opinion of Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe, a "brazen political gimmick in an election year, a cruel hoax upon people who are poor through no fault of their own, and another dangerous step along the deceptive road to socialism."

While emphasizing his "very real concern over the plight of the unfortunate needy among our fellow-citizens," the veteran Louisiana national legislator asserted that "more federal handouts of taxpayers' funds do not provide the solutions to the problems."

He was especially critical of the powers which, under provisions of the bill, would be invested in a "poverty czar," who, he said, could "do just about as he might choose in spending this money, including the promotion and fostering of socialistic schemes and practices."

"It is indeed regrettable," he said, "that the administration is dangling this type of vote-bait before our unfortunate needy people."

"Enlarging the welfare state is no answer to the problems of the poor, and history makes this fact unmistakably clear."

Federal Search For Bodies In Area Lake Ends

TALLULAH (Special) — Federal officials have given up the search for the remaining portions of two bodies found in Palmyra Lake south of here and turned the job over to local authorities.

Six Navy divers who searched the muddy lake, an offshoot of Old River, without success have returned to normal duty and FBI agent Joe Sullivan left for Jackson, Miss. Wednesday. Friday the FBI said the case was being turned over to local officers.

The case was the subject of national attention earlier this week when it was thought for awhile that the lower half of a body found Sunday by a fisherman might be that of one of three civil rights workers who disappeared at Philadelphia, Miss., June 21.

However, the first body was tentatively identified as that of Negro Charles Moore of Meadville, Miss. The other body, found Monday, was also tentatively identified as a Meadville Negro, Henry Dees.

1964 Cotton Act To Be Discussed By Farm Bureau

The 1964 Cotton Act recently passed by Congress will be discussed at the annual Louisiana Farm Bureau Cotton Conference in Baton Rouge July 21, Lloyd Coon of the Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau said Friday.

The conference, which is conducted in conjunction with the 42nd annual convention of the voluntary farmers' organization, will begin at 3:30 p.m. at the Jack Tar Capitol House, the Farm Bureau spokesman said.

First item on the agenda will be an address by an undersecretary of Agriculture from Washington, D. C. on the present Cotton Act.

A discussion of the use of pesticides by Dr. Dale Newsum, head of the Entomology Department of Louisiana State University, will also be presented at the meeting.

Farm Bureau members attending the conference then will act on recommendations from the parish organizations, and elect a chairman for the statewide Cotton Advisory Committee.

LESSEN PRESSURES IN STUTTERING

LEARNING to talk is not easy and youngsters are not equally prepared to develop this skill. "Children between 2 and 5 tend to repeat sounds, syllables, whole words, and phrases in connected speech," according to Dr. Donald Conihain. He says that, at some stage of development many who eventually achieve normal speech display the fluency interruptions characteristic of the stutters.

A minority continue to talk in this way and eventually exhibit the blocks, hesitations, and mannerisms typical of this condition. We do not know why this happens except that the youngster is disturbed by some physical or emotional trauma during these trying years. The parents may have set their standards too high and become overly concerned when the tot has more than the usual difficulty learning to talk properly. The youngster becomes frustrated, setting the scene for a speech defect. These same parents realize that learning to walk involves many falls; but learning to talk is not viewed with equal understanding.

A psychic cause is suspected when the stuttering occurs under stress or with excitement. The boy or girl loses confidence on becoming aware of the speech difficulty. This added hazard is more likely to follow when the parents place a penalty or focus undue attention on imperfect speech. The youngster now is on the way to becoming a stutterer. At first there is a block in saying the same sounds, words, and phrases.

The problem should be recognized as early as possible and the environment changed. Best results are obtained before the child develops a defeatist image of himself as a stutterer. The parents must avoid the situations that precipitate episodes of stuttering. Allow the child ample time to speak and avoid showing embarrassment about the tot's speech behavior. Professional counseling may be needed.

MEANING OF BLEEDING
M. J. writes: Is rectal bleeding a sign of stomach cancer?
REPLY
No. It may be due to hemorrhoids, anal fissures or ulcers, polyps, diverticula, or cancer of the lower bowel. Bleeding from the stomach cancer usually leads to black stools, because the blood darkens when mixed with stomach acids. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on rectal bleeding.

BOWLING DURING PREGNANCY

Mrs. R. writes: My daughter is two months pregnant. She bowls once a week for three hours. Won't this harm the baby?
REPLY
No. Bowling is good exercise up to the sixth month of pregnancy.

HERNIA FROM CRYING

Mr. D. B. writes: I was told that if a mother lets a boy baby cry for a long time, he will get a rupture. Is this true?
REPLY
The added strain could lead to hernia if the child has an inherent weakness in the groin.

NOT UNUSUAL

J. G. writes: Can you die with your eyes open?
REPLY
Yes, and this is common.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTEBOOK: Insiders report that Barry Goldwater has written a book on foreign policy titled "Where I Stand." The manuscript is locked in a vault at a New York publishing firm, and there's an agreement that if the Senator from Arizona had failed to win the GOP nomination, the book would have been returned to him and not published... The front-paged bookie case, which may become a bigger story than the Harry Gross expose, is expected to involve someone in a very high municipal office, although the offender's distinguished boss doesn't know a thing about the irregularities. If the investigator's evidence isn't of the clinching kind, local reporters ought to keep on the lookout for a "quiet resignation."

Well, wouldn't you know, Sherree North came down with the mumps at the premiere of "Thursday is a Good Night" at the Paramount Mall, and Tom Ewell wound up with Judy Abbott as his leading lady. It was just like a movie plot; Judy is not only the director of the play, but Tom's ex-wife... The wife in an important show biz divorce has become quite chummy with the detectives her husband has trailing her all over town. She frequently treats them to drinks and has nicknamed them "The Fat One" and "The Tall One."

"Let's Not Be Beastly To The Commie" department: For the first time, there'll be a contestant from behind the Iron Curtain displaying her frame at the International Beauty Spectacular at Long Beach, Cal. — a Miss Poland — Sen. Kenneth Keating, who has led the battle for a better solution to the problem of drug addiction in New York, has become optimistic about getting a hospital just for the treatment of addicts. He now tells friends, "it's no longer a possibility — it's now a probability."

The concert honoring Eddie Condon at Carnegie Hall should be one of the great bashes of the season, with giant names coming in from all over to pay tribute to a sunny, funny fellow who has been a happy fixture on the jazz scene for 42 years. Johnny Mercer is taking a train here from California (do you know anybody who does THAT anymore?) — Bob Crosby is prying himself away from the Pebble Beach Golf Course to be part of the show, and every celebrity who isn't camped in the Sahara Desert or nailed to a film shooting schedule will be in the audience... All's right with the world. The Vineyard (N.J.) Times Journal printed a picture of two gentlemen frying eggs on the sidewalk during a local heat wave, and I must thank Miss Ann Guelfi for sending me a copy of the photo... Margaret Leighton has been helping Michael Wilding decorate his house, if that constitutes a clue to their wedding plans... Carol Channing's first single recording for Command will have an initial pressing of 100,000 copies. The brass at the disc firm think it will rush onto the charts as one of the big hits of the year.

Former "Miss Universe" Linda Bement appeared at the Chateau Madrid the other night to pose with her husband, Jockey Manuel Ycaza, and the Kids from Spain — and there's been a change in Linda. She's now a blonde, lovelier than ever, and excellent evidence that blondes do have more fun... When Jack Lemmon was in New York filming "How to Murder Your Wife," the Broadway musical "Fade Out—Fade In" hadn't opened, but it's a good bet that when he returns he'll catch the show as a thank you to its star, Carol Burnett, who said of him: "I think Jack Lemmon should be in every picture they make in Hollywood. I could go to see him every day."

Many an East Sider has been puzzled by the display of that big "tryout" Canadian flag which flaps from the front of the Delmonico Hotel and causes

The display will be open to the public.

The Times Square book shops are doing big business in a volume titled "Real Estate Know-How." It was written by Marshall N. Israel, the young real estate tycoon in California who leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge last December after his financial house of cards collapsed.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 7-18

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTEBOOK: Insiders report that Barry Goldwater has written a book on foreign policy titled "Where I Stand." The manuscript is locked in a vault at a New York publishing firm, and there's an agreement that if the Senator from Arizona had failed to win the GOP nomination, the book would have been returned to him and not published... The front-paged bookie case, which may become a bigger story than the Harry Gross expose, is expected to involve someone in a very high municipal office, although the offender's distinguished boss doesn't know a thing about the irregularities. If the investigator's evidence isn't of the clinching kind, local reporters ought to keep on the lookout for a "quiet resignation."

Well, wouldn't you know, Sheree North came down with the mumps at the premiere of "Thursday is a Good Night" at the Paramount Mall, and Tom Ewell wound up with Judy Abbott as his leading lady. It was just like a movie plot; Judy is not only the director of the play, but Tom's ex-wife. The wife in an important show biz divorce has become quite chummy with the detectives her husband has trailing her all over town. She frequently treats them to drinks and has nicknamed them "The Fat One" and "The Tall One."

"Let's Not Be Beastly To The Commie" department: For the first time, there'll be a contestant from behind the Iron Curtain displaying her frame at the International Beauty Spectacular at Long Beach, Cal. — a Miss Poland... Sen. Kenneth Keating, who has led the battle for a better solution to the problem of drug addiction in New York, has become optimistic about getting a hospital just for the treatment of addicts. He now tells friends, "it's no longer a possibility — it's now a probability."

The concert honoring Eddie Condon at Carnegie Hall should be one of the great bashes of the season, with giant names coming in from all over to pay tribute to a sunny, funny fellow who has been a happy fixture on the jazz scene for 42 years. Johnny Mercer is taking a train here from California (do you know anybody who does THAT anymore?) — Bob Crosby is prying himself away from the Pebble Beach Golf Course to be part of the show, and every celebrity who isn't camped in the Sahara Desert or nailed to a film shooting schedule will be in the audience... All's right with the world. The Vineyard (N.J.) Times Journal printed a picture of two gentlemen frying eggs on the sidewalk during a local heat wave, and I must thank Miss Ann Guelfi for sending me a copy of the photo... Margaret Leighton has been helping Michael Wilding decorate his house, if that constitutes a clue to their wedding plans... Carol Channing's first single recording for Command will have an initial pressing of 100,000 copies. The brass at the disc firm think it will rush onto the charts as one of the big hits of the year.

Former "Miss Universe" Linda Bement appeared at the Chateau Madrid the other night to pose with her husband, jockey Manuel Ycaza, and the kids from Spain — and there's been a change in Linda. She's now a blonde, lovelier than ever, and excellent evidence that blondes do have more fun... When Jack Lemmon was in New York filming "How to Murder Your Wife," the Broadway musical "Fade Out—Fade In" hadn't opened, but it's a good bet that when he returns he'll catch the show as a thank you to his star, Carol Burnett, who said of him: "I think Jack Lemmon should be in every picture they make in Hollywood. I could go to see him every day."

Many an East Sider has been puzzled by the display of that big "tryout" Canadian flag which flaps from the front of the Delmonico Hotel and causes

Negroes File Damage Suits For Injuries

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Three Negroes who desegregated a cafeteria in the state capitol building two weeks ago filed suit Friday in U.S. District Court for $850,000 damages.

One of them, the Rev. Arthur L. Jelks Sr., head of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People chapter here, was punched in the jaw by an unidentified white man, the petition said.

Defendants in the case are an unidentified "John Doe," Leander Perez Sr., Plaquemine Parish segregation leader; State Police Supt. Thomas D. Burbank; Gov. John McKeithen; Mrs. Clyde Bellows, operator of the cafeteria, and several unidentified plain clothesmen and state troopers.

Plaintiffs are the Rev. Jelks, Betty Jean Wilson and Cordelia Antoine.

When the Negroes left the cafeteria, they allege, they were forced to sidestep down a corridor lined with whites shouting insults at them. One employee they claimed to be a state employee but identified only as "John Doe," slammed his fist into Jelks' jaw.

The petition contends Perez shouted offensive and insulting language at the trio.

Perez was quoted in the petition as saying: "You — Kennedy lovers. Who told you to come here? ... I ought to throw you through that wall. Where's the FBI? Paging the FBI. Paging the FBI. Paging Bobby Kennedy."

The petition claims Perez is responsible for creating a situation where "John Doe" could allegedly strike Jelks.

Burbank is named as a defendant on the grounds he was present and did not take action to break up the crowd or arrest "John Doe."

People Hinder Canoe Voyage On Mississippi

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three Ohio youths said Friday they found people their biggest headache in their 1,900 mile canoe trip down the Mississippi.

They planned the trip as a sort of "living-off-the-land" exercise when they started out in early June. However, they were kicked out of a restaurant as civil rights workers in one Mississippi town. And when they arrived in Baton Rouge, they were almost jailed as foreigners without a passport.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING complex of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation in West Monroe is shown in architect's drawing above. Recently completed lumber-woodlands building and controller's and medical-industrial relations wings now under construction are part of Olin's Master Plan office facilities to be constructed over the next several years. The two new wings are scheduled for completion by next February. The contractor for these is Arthur Brothers, Inc., of Kingsville, Texas. Architects are Wells & Parker, Monroe. The Olin project officer is D. B. Hilley, industrial engineering manager.

CONSTRUCTION BEGUN

Olin Adding Two New Office Wings

Construction has begun on two additional wings of a new office building complex at Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation in West Monroe.

Under way are a controller's wing of 18,000 square feet and a medical services and industrial relations wing of 9,000 square feet. These structures, scheduled for completion by next February, are being built near Olin's lumber-woodlands office building, finished last December.

All of these facilities are part of a large office building complex to be constructed over the next several years east of the Olin pulp and paper mill, fronting on the Jonesboro Highway.

The new controller's wing will consolidate under one roof Olin's Accounting, Systems, Credit, Data Processing, Office Services, and other related departments.

The structure will feature laminated beams, arches and wood paneling, with the accent on wood usage throughout the building. Wood solar screens, fences and gates will accent the exterior appearance. Interior features will include sound absorbing partitions for quiet working conditions, removable partitions in some areas, and electrical and telephone ducts throughout the main office section for maximum flexibility.

The medical and industrial wing will be a two-story structure. The medical facility, on the first floor, will be staffed by a medical director, nurses and a laboratory and X-ray technician. It will contain complete facilities for an industrial program, including treatment and examining rooms, X-ray equipment, physio-therapy, laboratory, utility room with sterilizing equipment, offices and reception area.

The Industrial Relations Department will occupy the second floor, with facilities for making job applications, testing, conference rooms and offices.

This wing will combine the use of wood, exposed aggregate stucco, brick and asbestos shingles. Interior features will include wood paneling, ceramic and acoustical tile and plaster in a harmonious design. Both wings will be completely air conditioned, and have the latest lighting and electrical equipment.

EXTENDS TERM

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI)—The national congress, acting with the support of the war minister, Friday approved a constitutional amendment extending the term of President Umberto Castello Branco for one year.

The 63-year-old former chief of staff was to have stepped down Jan. 31, 1966, after filling out the remaining portion of the term of Joao Goulart, ousted as president by the armed forces this spring. The amendment will keep him in office until March 15, 1967.

The contract for construction of the two buildings has been awarded to Arthur Brothers, Inc., of Kingsville, Texas.

The buildings are part of Olin's Master Plan office facilities, and were designed by Wells & Parker, Monroe architects. The Olin project officer for the new office complex is D. B. Hilley, industrial engineering manager. The architectural style will match that of the recently completed lumber-woodlands building, featuring a Louisiana French mansard-style roof with vaulted windows and balcony.

Texas Avenue I-20 Overpass To Open Soon

The Texas Avenue overpass on Interstate-20 on the southside of Monroe will be open to traffic within the next 10 days, James W. Moore, Fifth District highway board member said.

Moore said that paving is going on at the east end of the overpass and "as soon as this work is finished, the structure will be opened to traffic."

The local construction department said that progress on the I-20 around the Twin Cities area has been "proceeding rapidly and satisfactorily due to the recent stretch of good weather."

Quoting a report dated July 16, Moore reported on the progress of the local I-20 projects.

The Stella Street - South Fifth interchange in West Monroe, scheduled to be completed in December, is 81 per cent finished, Moore stated. The project is under contract to Foster-Creighton Construction Co.

Prior to its actual completion east-west traffic on I-20 will be able to go through the interchange.

"Motorists will not be forced to leave the highway near Glenwood Hospital when the overpass section is completed," Moore explained, "but will be able to continue through West Monroe and across the Ouachita River bridge."

Traffic will not be able to get on or off the interchange until its completion in December, the board member said, but "vehicles will be allowed to travel east and west through this portion perhaps by late summer or early fall."

The highway official discounted reports that I-20 going through West Monroe would not be opened until the Monroe section is completed.

"Motorists will soon be able to travel on four-lane highways all the way from Shreveport to Monroe," he added.

The Texas Avenue - Nutland Road section of the highway, along with U. S. Hwy. 165 bypass is 44 per cent completed. S & W Construction Company has the contract for this project.

The Catalpa Street - Texas Avenue complex, under contract by Farnsworth Construction Co., is 73 per cent finished.

Crews from the Highway Department in West Monroe recently completed the removal of the concrete neutral ground islands from Jonesboro Road near Olin Mathieson Corp., Moore said.

Edwards Named Supervisor Of Negro Schools

Charles J. Edwards, principal of Lincoln Elementary School, has been appointed supervisor of Negro elementary schools in the city school system.

The announcement was made Thursday by Supt. Van D. Odom, and his appointment is effective Sept. 1.

A former assistant principal of Carroll High School, Frank J. Myles, will replace Edwards as principal of Lincoln.

Odom said that Edwards will fill a new post in the city system. Edwards, a native of Alexandria, received his bachelor's degree from Grambling College and his master's from the University of Iowa. He has also studied at the University of Michigan.

The new supervisor had taught in Jackson Parish for five years before coming to Monroe. He is president of Grambling's Alumni Association, active in Scout work and is a Sunday school teacher at Zion Traveler Baptist Church. He is a former chairman of the colored division of the United Giver's Fund.

A native of Ouachita Parish, Myles has been at Carroll High for 11 years. He is a graduate of Dillard University and received his master's degree from Indiana University. He is a veteran of the Korean War.

Stocks Romp To Records, G.M. Soars

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market romped into record high ground Friday by every popular measure.

General Motors soared to a new 1964 high. The key issue had been tapped by market analysts as the psychological spark to keep the rallying rolling along.

All the indexes in the Dow Jones and Standard & Poor's averages made new records. D-J industrials spurted 3.88 to 851.35 — the widest gain for this widely watched indicator since July 1. The rails rose 1.99 to 220.98 and the utilities picked up 0.79 to 148.25. Standard & Poor's 500 stocks climbed 0.37 to 84.01. The rail average advanced 0.39 to 49.44 and the utilities 0.25 to 70.87.

Of the 1,337 issues traded 635 advanced and 432 declined. New highs were attained by 120 stocks while only 7 issues touched new 1964 lows. Sales totaled 4,640,000 shares, the same as on Thursday.

Commonwealth Oil was the most active issue, gaining 3/4 on $4,600 shares. The company has been active in recent sessions and is rumored to be a takeover candidate.

Chrysler placed second and picked up 3/4 on 84,500 shares. Westinghouse Electric was third and added 3/4 on 72,300 shares. The electrical equipment maker had a surprisingly sharp improvement in second quarter profits.

The big one, however, was General Motors which took fifth position in activity. It soared 1 1/2 to 96. At one point in the session it touched a 1964 high of 96 1/4. Gillette was sixth most active, falling 1 on investor disappointment in a poor profit showing.

Richfield was the seventh most active stock, rising 1/2. The company denied knowledge of a takeover bid. The Justice Department has been pressing Sinclair and Cities Service to sell their stock in the company.

Stocks scored irregular improvement on slightly increased volume on the American Exchange.

Ross Barnett Plans To Back Gov. Wallace

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Former Gov. Ross Barnett, a leader in the unpledged elector movement in Mississippi, said Friday he would support Alabama Gov. George Wallace for president as long as Wallace is a candidate, but he held the door open to back Barry Goldwater later.

Barnett said he preferred the Arizona senator over President Johnson.

"Let there be no misunderstanding regarding my position and my determination to continue to support Gov. George Wallace as long as he is in the race," Barnett said in a statement.

"His work was even a factor in making it possible for Goldwater to procure the control of the Republican Party."

"Let us not be hasty. Let us be sure that Goldwater's speech accepting the nomination is not another case of the voice of Jacob's voice but the hands of Esau."

"Wallace is my candidate and Wallace shall remain my candidate until Wallace himself secures recognition of our rights under the constitution."

"I would vote for Sen. Goldwater before I would vote for Lyndon Johnson, a counterfeit Confederate."

Barnett said Mississippians had "plenty of time to make our final decision" on whether to continue to press for unpledged presidential electors or back Goldwater.

He said the unpledged elector movement was becoming more valuable and "before we surrender them we will demand full recognition of our state sovereignty, and our way of life."

He said already pressure "is being brought on Wallace for our unpledged electors" to support Goldwater.

Studies Begin On Courthouse Expansion Plan

A local architect has begun preliminary studies aimed at expansion and improvement of the Ouachita Parish courthouse.

Police Juror Robert Downing of ward 10, chairman of the jury's courthouse committee, reported Friday that he had followed up on authority given him last week to contact architect Herbert Land Jr.

Downing said Land probably would offer several proposed plans for expansion.

"The courthouse was built in 1927 for the needs of that time, but we must remember that Ouachita Parish has grown," Downing explained.

"The courthouse is in excellent physical condition, but it doesn't have any more room for the future."

Rich Handicaps Set On East, West Coasts

By The Associated Press
Eleven of the top handicap performers on the West Coast race for $162,100 and five of the best on the East Coast run for $107,500 in the two richest events on Saturday's thoroughbred racing program.

The West Coast stars, headed by South Africa-bred Colorado King, go in the 1 1/4 miles of the Hollywood Gold Cup at Hollywood Park. The Eastern aces, with Kelso and Mongo renewing their rivalry, tangle in the 1 1/4 miles of the Monmouth Handicap at Monmouth Park.

Members of the handicap division also will be seen in action in other headlines with 12 entered in the $40,000-added Equipoise Mile at Arlington Park, 10 fillies and mares in the $30,000-added New Castle at Delaware Park, 11 in the $25,000-added Tidal 'Cap on the grass at Aqueduct and 12 in the $15,000-added Andover at Rockingham Park.

In addition to Colorado King, four of the Gold Cup entries are foreign bred. These imports are Cadiz, last year's winner from New Zealand; Final Command and Desert Chief III, also from New Zealand; and Jalouse II, an Argentine mare.

The American contingent is made up of Mr. Consistency, seeking to break a Hollywood Park losing jinx of 26 races, after winning four major stakes at Santa Anita; Mustard Plaster, Bold Commander, Native Diver, Drill Site and Viking Spirit.

Mr. Consistency is the high-weight under 123 pounds, giving five to Colorado King, who tied the world record for 1 1/4 miles in winning the American Handicap over the same track July 4. That was his first stakes triumph in this country after being purchased by a Texas syndicate last fall for $44,000. With 11 starters victory will be worth $102,100.

Kelso, Horse of the Year the last four years, goes into the Monmouth Handicap as the 8-5 choice although he has not won a stake in four starts this year. His closest was a second to Iron Peg in the Suburban.

The 7-year-old gelding picks up 130 pounds, giving three to Mongo. The last time they met Mongo edged Kelso in the Washington D.C. International on the grass last November.

Olden Times, 125; Gun Bow, 124 and Dean Carl, 119, each with plenty of early speed.

Peters 3-Hits Athletics; Sox Take 6-1 Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Left-hander Gary Peters set down Kansas City on three hits Friday night as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Athletics 6-1.

Peters, the 1963 rookie of the year, collected his 11th victory against four defeats in one of his better performances of the season.

Pete Ward and Ron Hansen led the Chicago attack, driving in two runs apiece, while Bill Skowron hammered his first home run for the Sox and 14th of the season.

The A's took a 1-0 lead in the fourth on doubles by Rocky Colavito and Bill Bryan, but the Sox came back with a pair in their half of the fourth on a double by Don Buford and run-scoring singles by Ward and Jim Landis.

Chicago scored twice in the sixth when Floyd Robinson doubled, went to third on an error and scored on Ward's sacrifice fly.

Ford Frick Says Television Pool Is Not Feasible Now

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said Friday it would not be feasible for the major leagues to either pool television revenue or expand at this time.

Frick made the statement in replying to a telegram from Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., who had asked Frick July 13 to use "your good offices to convene the leaders of both the American and National Leagues to prevent Milwaukee from being the first major league town in the country in this century to be left without a baseball team."

There have been reports that the Braves will accept the lure of TV and radio contracts and move to Atlanta in 1965. Milwaukee officials neither confirmed nor denied the report.

Reuss told Frick he was "completely confident that Milwaukee can keep its major league status if baseball pools its television revenue and expands, preferably into three eight team leagues."

Frick said in reply that the pooling of television revenues by major league clubs has been considered by them "and is worthy of further consideration."

"A weekly nationwide major league TV program, in which all clubs would share equally, is now under active consideration, but in my opinion a plan to pool all television receipts would not be feasible or acceptable at this time," Frick said.

He noted that he has said frequently he favors "sound expansion of the major leagues."

However, he added, "I cannot agree that expanding the major league clubs by four at this time" presents no problems as stated by Reuss.

"In my opinion, it would present many problems which should not be tackled until the existing four expansion clubs have achieved a better competitive position on the field," Frick said.

Mickey Wright Takes Golf Lead

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP)—Mickey Wright, who fired a five-over-par 77 during the pro-amateur Thursday, bounced back in her usual form Friday to take the opening round lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Association Yankee Open with a one-under-par 71. Trailing Miss Wright by one stroke was veteran Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C. Tied at 73 were Marlene Hagge of Pensacola, Fla., Patty Berg of Fort Myers, Fla., Shirley Englehorn of Los Angeles and Sandy Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex.

A victory here would give Miss Wright her fourth straight tournament triumph, which would equal her LPGA record set in 1962.

Mickey, who leads the tour with $15,220 in prize money, made a fantastic shot on No. 17 for her par four. Falling short of the dogleg on the 385-yard hole, she was forced to shoot through the crotch of a tree to the green.

Angels Shutout Minnesota, 1-0 On Home Run

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—Fred Newman and reliever Bob Lee cooled off Minnesota bats in stifling mid-summer heat Friday night as the Los Angeles Angels edged the Twins 1-0 on Felix Torres' home run.

Newman went seven innings, allowing five singles, before he was taken out because of the 90-degree heat and sticky humidity. Lee blanked the Twins over the final two innings, preserving the Angels' 13th shutout of the season.

Minnesota threatened only twice. Tony Oliva and Jimmie Hall hit successive singles with one out in the fourth, but Newman got Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison on called third strikes.

Allison led off the seventh with a single and took second when Willie Smith bobbled the ball. He was sacrificed to third but Newman, 8-3, retired Earl Battey on a grounder and Jim Snyder on a short fly.

HOWARD GRIFFIN

Dr. Sheppard, Divorcee Off On Trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Sam Sheppard, less than 24 hours after his release from nearly nine years in prison, took off Friday for parts unknown, probably to get married.

Sitting beside him as he pulled away by car from a Columbus motel was Ariane Tebbenjohanns, the German divorcee to whom he became engaged while in prison.

Also in the car—which belongs to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns—were F. Lee Bailey of Boston, his lawyer; Bailey's wife and Chicago Tribune reporter Paul Holmes, who was written extensively about the 1954 bludgeoning slaying of Sheppard's pregnant wife, Marilyn, and subsequent events.

Their rumored destination was North Carolina.

Sheppard is free under $10,000 federal bond, which Bailey says allows him to travel anywhere in the United States.

A U.S. District Court judge granted a habeas corpus motion Wednesday, saying Sheppard didn't get a fair trial in Cleveland in 1954. That was when he was convicted of second-degree murder.

As they left, the former suburban Cleveland osteopath called out to an Associated Press newsmen that they would marry as soon as possible.

Bailey mentioned North Carolina during a news conference at the motel where Sheppard spent his first night of freedom. This led to speculation they would try to marry there, avoiding a waiting period.

Sheppard was avoiding his home in the Bay Village area of Cuyahoga County—Cleveland—apparently because of the prosecutor's efforts to have him returned to prison.

In Cleveland, Prosecutor John T. Corrigan drafted an amendment to a stay order issued Thursday by a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judge. That order had little effect because Sheppard already was free, but Corrigan hopes to amend it to cancel Sheppard's bond and return him to the penitentiary.

That would require a federal hearing, which is expected to be in Cincinnati next Wednesday. Bailey has said he will be present.

Murder, Suicide Ruled By Police In Twin Killing

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Police logged the deaths of a restaurant owner and a fired employee as murder and suicide Friday.

Mrs. Jeanne Fontana, 53, owner of Fontana's Seafood Restaurant, was killed Thursday night in an apartment over her establishment.

Police said Walter S. Escotto, 33, fired last Monday, was lying beside her, also shot in the head. He died early Friday.

A scuffle for the pistol probably preceded the shootings, police said.

Reds Attack U.S. Driving

BERLIN (AP)—The German commandant of Communist-ruled East Berlin, Maj. Gen. Helmut Poppe, complained Friday that U.S. military vehicles continually break traffic rules in East Berlin "in a provocative way."

A U.S. spokesman said the charges are unfounded.

A telegram from Poppe addressed to Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, the U.S. commandant was delivered to U.S. headquarters.

The Western Allies do not recognize Poppe, or his position. He was appointed two years ago after the Russians abolished the post of Berlin commandant in their military lineup.

Since the United States, Britain and France deal only with the Russians on questions concerning Berlin, the telegram will get no reply.

Poppe detailed eight alleged traffic violations by U.S. Army vehicles, including speeding and illegal parking, in the past two months. He demanded that Polk take steps to prevent repetition.

The final instance he listed was an incident last Sunday in which an American officer was hit in the face by an East German policeman.

Poppe did not mention the blow, but charged that the Army sedan involved struck a policeman who tried to prevent it from driving into a restricted zone along the Red wall.

The U.S. State Department protested the incident to the Soviet Union as a "crude and irresponsible act."

U.S., British and French military vehicles make frequent trips into East Berlin, exercising the Western Allied right of free movement throughout the city.

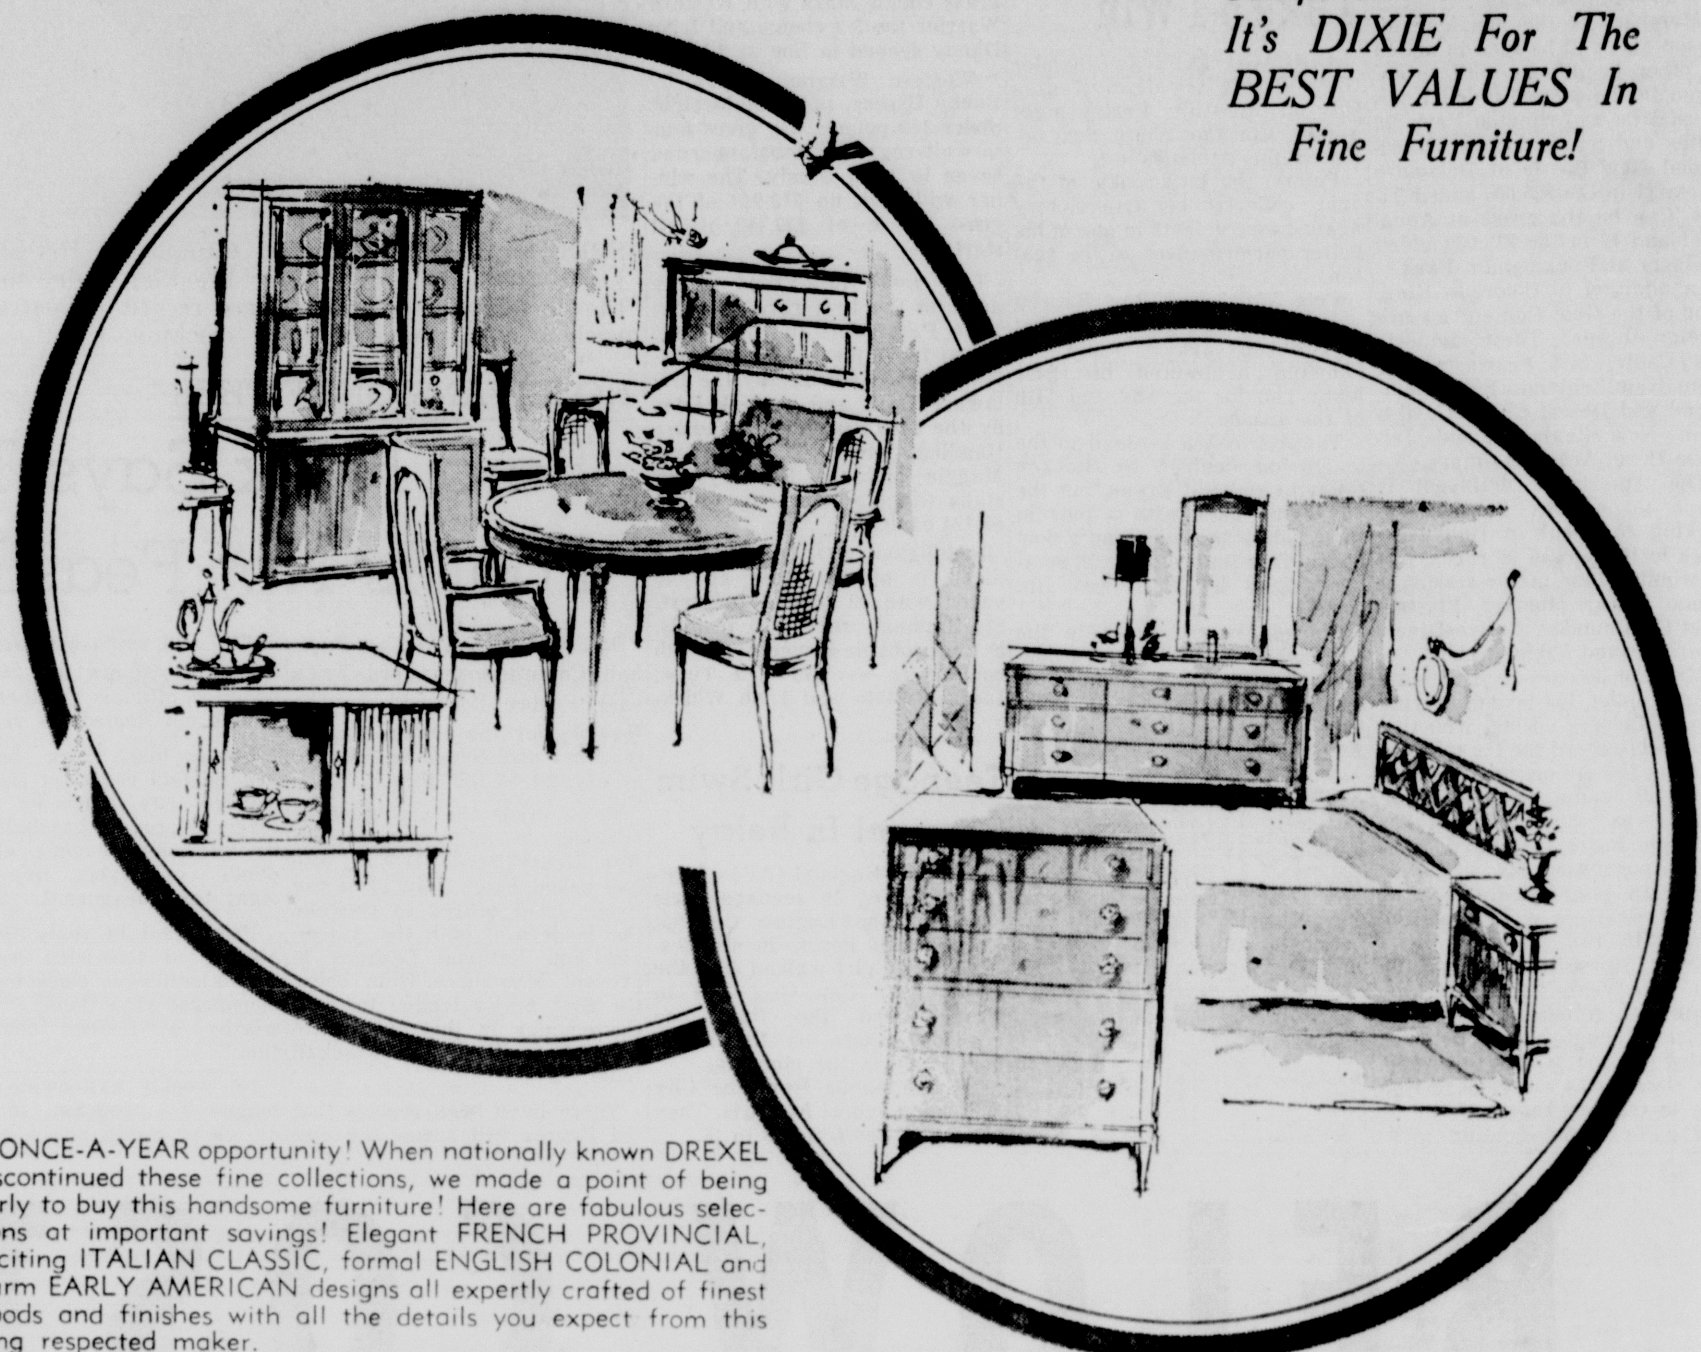

The Western patrols often are harassed by East German police. When this happens, the Western authorities retaliate by hampering the movement of Soviet vehicles in West Berlin.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every woman should fit the number of shampoos she has to the condition of her scalp. Normal hair should be washed fairly frequently. Once every seven to eight days is usually about right. Of course even this depends on the weather and your activities.

Many unfortunate hair conditions are the results of neglect. Thinning hair, drab dull hair, and that which is too oily or too dry, may be due to inadequate care or poor health or deficient nutrition.

Sometimes we do not have a shampoo often enough, thus allowing a film to cover the scalp and part of the hair. If the pores are clogged by an accumulation of oil and dirt you cannot expect lovely tresses. Normal scalps secrete oil and perspiration. This attracts airborne bacteria and dirt, therefore, frequent shampoos are essential.

However if you wash your hair too often you will dry out the important oils. If your hair is dry it is because the little oil glands in the scalp are too inactive. If your scalp is too oily it is due to the fact that these glands are relaxed or overactive. In either case stimulation is important.

To normalize the scalp, massage or brush your hair each day. If you brush it turn the bristles down toward the scalp and then up toward the ceiling as you sweep the brush along to the ends of the hair. This exerts a gentle pull. If you massage your scalp spread your fingers over the head. Do not move the fingers. Move the scalp with the fingers. Change position of the hands until you have covered the entire head.

True dandruff is a skin disease and should be treated by a skin specialist. However most so-called dandruff is the accumulation of top cells which flake off. This scaling may be dry or oily.

Good hygienic measures will usually control this simpler condition. Scalp cleanliness, stimulation and general health habits are indicated.

DEAR ABBY

His Girlfriend Should Break Own Engagement

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a girl who is engaged to somebody else. She had already accepted his ring when I met her, but she wasn't wearing it at the time. Not until I had fallen deeply in love with her did she tell me about her engagement because she didn't want to lose me. She says I am the one she loves, but she can't bring herself to hurt her fiancé by breaking off with him right now. I can't see any point in waiting around. Last night she asked me if I would explain everything to her fiancé and return the ring. I have never met the man, and I don't think I should. My girl says he is a nice person and would do me no violence. I need some advice.

DEAR CONFUSED: You are going to get more advice than you asked for. Your girl should break her own engagement. Furthermore, I hope you realize that you are "in love" with a person who accepted an engagement ring from one man, did not wear it, and encouraged another to fall in love with her. Doesn't this suggest something to you?

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old and I need to have a question answered. My mother has the world's best memory and is the world's biggest worrier. Can you tell me why?

CHRISTINA DEAR CHRISTINA: Maybe she's the world's biggest worrier because she has the world's best memory.

DEAR ABBY: I have an only child who has just turned eight. She isn't spoiled, but she is used to being the center of attention. I just learned that I am going to have another baby and I don't know how to break the news to her. I have kind of hinted around, asking how she would like a baby sister or brother, and she says she doesn't want one. She is naturally quite a jealous child and becomes very upset when I hold her doll. Can you help me?

TROUBLED DEAR TROUBLED: Quit "hinting around" and tell her the truth. More important, when the new baby arrives, don't shove your daughter in the background. Give her plenty of attention entirely alone. Jealousy is natural for all children under the circumstances, but it can be minimized with intelligent and thoughtful handling.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not seem very important to you, but it is very important to me. It's a growing stomach.

Not mine, my girl's. The last time I kissed her, we were interrupted by a low, rumbling growl. As a result we broke into laughter and nearly bit each other's upper lip off. If her stomach growled only occasionally, I wouldn't mind, but it happens quite often. And always during the most solemn moments. Can you recommend a cure? Otherwise, we will never get through the wedding ceremony with straight faces.

B.B. DEAR ABBY: The only "cure" for a growing stomach is food. Feed her and you won't be hearing from her stomach.

Problems? Write to ABBY, C.O. News-Star. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHAT TO PACK was the question uppermost in the mind of Miss Linda Sue Carlson, as she prepared to leave for Mexico where she will spend the remainder of her summer as part of the Presbyterian Church "Invest Your Summer" Youth Project for college students throughout the country. Miss Carlson is being sponsored by the Women of the Church of Westminster Presbyterian Church here in Monroe.

Linda Sue Carlson Heads For Mexico To Invest Rest Of Summer At Camp

By DOTTIE BURNS
World Society Editor

Linda Susan Carlson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Carlson of Monroe, will spend the rest of her summer having the time of her life in the wilds of Mexico, giving of herself, her talents and her youthful energies to a camp for Mexican children.

With so much to offer in so many fields, it's a shame that the sacrifices of the young people of America and of the world, for that matter, are so seldom recognized, and yet what this one young lady is doing this summer is being repeated by representative members of the youth of the nation both at home and abroad.

The group that Linda Susan will join for the remainder of her vacation is part of the "Invest Your Summer" project for students of college age, sponsored by the Presbyterian Church. These projects encompass social work, hospitals, community work and camps all over the United States and now into Mexico through the cooperation of the National Presbyterian Church of Mexico.

During much of her sophomore year at Louisiana State University where she is a pre-med student, Linda Susan heard with fascination the plans being made by the Rev. Charles Harwell, associate pastor of University Presbyterian Church in Baton Rouge and leader of the Westminster Group at the University.

Through a former seminary classmate, now serving as an evangelist in the Yucatan State in Mexico, Rev. Harwell arranged to take a group of college students interested in setting up and running the recreational activities of a camp for youngsters in this isolated area.

CALL ANSWERED

His call to students throughout Louisiana was answered by 10 young men and women, eight from L. S. U., one from Tulane and one from Louisiana Tech. Miss Carlson said it was not surprising that most of the group came from L. S. U. as Rev. Harwell was a most persuasive advocate of the program.

The Louisiana contingent is meeting in Baton Rouge

this weekend for an orientation program, which includes first aid, Bible review, book reviews on Mexico and other pertinent information about the area, its inhabitants, their customs and culture.

On Tuesday they will be met in New Orleans by a group of approximately 12 students from Medford, Oregon for the noon jet flight to Merida, capital city of Yucatan. You'll probably have to refer to a map of North America to believe this, but the state of Yucatan is a boot sticking out the Gulf of Mexico, and surprisingly enough, is due South of New Orleans. The plane trip will take only an hour and fifteen minutes.

Once in Merida, which is about 90 miles inland, the young people, accompanied by Rev. Harwell and a nurse, will drive 60 miles north to the camp site, owned by the Presbyterian Church, located between the towns of Progreso and Telchac. The area, Miss Carlson said, is a hunting and fishing paradise frequented by Americans looking for complete peace and relaxation while pursuing these sports amid rustic surroundings. Proof of this isolation is the fact that there is only one road leading into the state from the rest of Mexico.

MAYAN CULTURE

Yucatan is also the center of the ancient Mayan culture, which dates back to the days long before the arrival of Cortez in Mexico. Needless to say, the group is looking forward to any free time that will allow them visits to the historical ruins of this early culture. The nationals they will be working with at the camp will be members of the Mayan Indian tribe.

Plans are for the group to set up the recreation area at the camp, erect buildings, repair and that may be there and be ready to open up within about two weeks after arrival. The camp will be conducted on a day camp basis with Mexican students to help as counselors. The American group has no idea how many campers they will have or in what age range they will be.

Actually, according to Miss Carlson, part of the adventure is that they know so little about what they will actually be called upon to do. Every day promises to be a real and worthwhile experience.

In preparing for the trip, Miss Carlson who studied

Spanish at L. S. U., has been busily polishing up her vocabulary and pronunciation. But, most of all, she has been trying to figure out just what clothes to take. This has been a real problem, knowing the rustic life they will be leading, for Mexican customs do not allow for women to wear slacks, shorts, culottes or any other form of trousers. This means dresses, easy to care for, easy to work in. The feminine members of the group finally decided that flared shifts were the only answer, and therefore Linda Susan had only to decide how many she could squeeze in to her 40 pounds allowable baggage.

Another problem for the Oregon group perhaps more than the Louisianians, but surely something for all to consider, was the extremely hot tropical temperatures they will be going into. And still another, according to Linda Susan is going to be how to keep from falling out of the hammocks which will serve as their beds during their stay. The hammocks, which each member of the group must buy himself, are not an economy measure, but a safety factor against snakes and vermin that prowl the tropics during the comparative cool of the night.

SPONSORSHIP

In getting his students ready to make the Mexican trip, Rev. Harwell promised that each would be able to go at a very minimum personal expense, only enough to cover food and lodging. Then he took it upon himself to contact the home parishes of each, asking that they help with the expenses of travel. Linda Susan is most grateful to the Women of the Church of her home parish, the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, who put up the necessary funds without question to sponsor her in the project.

At summer's end, Linda Susan will return to L. S. U. for her third year as a pre-med student. She plans to get her degree at the University, probably in bacteriology, before going on to L. S. U. Medical College in New Orleans.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Tips On Preserving Wedding Gowns Given

By Heloise Cruise

Dear Heloise:

What do you do about a wedding gown and veil two weeks after a wedding? When I pack it away, must it be cleaned, must it be professionally packed or can I do it myself?

"Bride"

After much research we finally went to the National Institute of Dry Cleaning and here is their answer:

We know of no chemical treatment which satisfactorily preserves wedding gowns. Grandmother was right when she wrapped her gown carefully to protect it from light and air and put it in a closed box or drawer, in a dry, nearly airtight place.

Dirt, light and moisture are the hazards. Light damages all fabrics so keep your dress where there is no light. Some people even wrap the gown in a dark-colored tissue paper, but there's no value in this except that blue is a sentimental color. (Now, gals, isn't that amazing? And all these years we have been thinking that blue tissue was something special. Heloise)

The tissue is good to soften the folds of the dress and avoid creases which may become impossible to remove. But white tissue is just as satisfactory as colored. Conceivably the tissue color might transfer to the dress fabric. It's not likely, but it could happen if by some chance the package became damp.

Moisture is a serious hazard to cotton, silk, rayon, and most fabrics — not so much so to dacron and nylon.

So store your wedding gown in a dry place. High humidity can cause mildew, which can leave a ruinous stain.

Fabrics buried with mummies in ancient Egypt survived thousands of years mainly because of the arid conditions in that part of the world. So keep the storage area dry.

Dirt is really the first villain to take care of. Be sure the dress is COMPLETELY CLEAN before you store it away.

Perspiration can cause stains and in time will weaken the fabric. We can only hope grandmother wore shields, though in those days "ladies" didn't perspire! If you have shields in your dress remove them before storing. Store them separately. The rubber in the shield can break down and release a brownish color that stains the fabric stubbornly.

Food stains, champagne spots and so on are easiest to remove when they are fresh. They can become IMPOSSIBLE to remove if they are allowed to set. They will attract moths too. Even if the fabric is not one which a moth eats, it will be damaged when the moths go for the food stains! Also don't leave any starch in the fabric. Silverfish love starch.

Dry cleaners can take care of the whole problem. They will clean and professionally finish the dress, soften its folds with tissue and pack it in a special wedding box so constructed that no air will get in. Some boxes are windowed with clear plastic so that when you lift up the lid you can show your grandchildren what you wore. But close the lid again so as not to expose the fabric to too much light and stow the box in a dark, dry place.

And may there be many pretty brides who later wear your wedding gown.

William L. Browne,
National Institute of Dry Cleaning

Ladies, I have been through the laboratories of the National Institute of Dry Cleaning. They are absolutely fabulous! So this is the last word on what to do with a bridal gown.

This is also a wonderful way to store little christening dresses or baptismal clothes which your children wear.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I cut the top off plastic bleach containers and use them to soak small articles of clothing, such as white socks, dish cloths, etc., on wash day.

The quart bleach containers are good to set in the ground beside tomato plants. Put a small hole in the bottom of the container and the water will drain out slowly and water the plant.

Check Food Jars To Protect Tots

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Mothers can protect their babies from the danger of contaminated food by checking for signs that baby jars have been opened — before buying.

"Experience shows that some people, unaware of, or indifferent to, the dangers of bacterial contamination, open jars of baby food in the store, sometimes taste the contents, and return them to the shelves," reports the American Academy of Pediatrics' committee on nutrition.

Two types of safety features on screw caps will reveal whether the jar has been opened or has lost its vacuum.

A flexible button in the center of the cap should be depressed, as if it had been sucked in by the vacuum in the jar. If the vacuum is lost, the button pops up and can be pressed up and down with the finger.

On a two-piece cap, three parallel lines run across the top of the jar until it has been opened. Then, the lines in the center section of the cap no longer match with the lines at the rim.

Broadway Show Touched With Fashion's Best

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Fashion designers have lately been lending their talents to dressing a number of Broadway shows. Now Broadway is returning the favor, with at least two hits influencing fashion this fall.

One, of course, is "Hello, Dolly!", around which Luis Estevez designed his entire collection. But Carol's 1910 "shirt-waists" are also hits in blouses, with their deep cuff sleeves, jabot frills and soft collars.

Barbra Streisand's "Funny Girl" is the other show, putting the midly look on the fashion map. Puffy skirt sleeves, midly collar and chiffon tie all appear in a number of day and dress fabrics, mated with lively skirts, pleated all around.

ARTICHOKES

When you are adding artichoke hearts (cooked frozen or canned) to a green salad, you'll find that a French dressing made with tarragon vinegar makes an excellent go-along.

NEW BAKERS

Note to new bakers: in cake making, "creamed" shortening and sugar should look as fluffy as beaten cream cheese.

VOTE FOR BOYCOTT

CAIRO (UPI) — African foreign ministers Friday decided a boycott committee should be formed to impose economic sanctions against South Africa.

Jurors Request State To Survey Cheniere Leak

A resolution was adopted Friday by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury requesting the Department of Public Works to conduct an immediate survey to determine the cause of a leak in the Cheniere Lake dam.

Engineer A. P. Andrews, representing the Department of Public Works, recommended the resolution, which also authorizes the state to lower the water level to take a closer look at the trouble.

"The water level is down two feet now," Andrews said. "But we need to make a more thorough investigation."

He explained that pressure caused a hole in the dam.

"The water had to be lowered so the dam could be repaired," Andrews said.

On other matters, the Police Jury adopted a resolution supporting action taken by the Ward 3 delegation in stopping work on the discharge line from the city sewer treatment plant to the Ouachita River.

Curtis Joiner of Ward 3 explained that the construction company failed to obtain a permit to cut across a parish blacktop road. He said the Ward 3 delegation polled the Police Jury on the telephone for authority to stop the work.

However, Joiner said work has been resumed. He explained the road would be repaired.

The Police Jury also voted to raise the level of the Prairie Bridge road in Ward 9. Ward 9 juror, Jesse Wilson said the work would be done approaching the bridge.

Wilson estimated it would cost about $3,000.

Welfare Agents, Dixie Officials Meet On Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—Welfare Department officials have met with state and local school officials in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana to review provisions of the Civil Rights Act, a spokesman said Friday.

The official said Assistant Secretary of Welfare James M. Quigley and others reviewed Titles 4 and 6 of the Civil Rights Act at meetings last week.

Similar meetings are planned in other states but details have not been worked out, he added. Title 4 deals with desegregation of public education and Title 6 deals with nondiscrimination in federally assisted programs.

The meetings were held in Charleston, Atlanta, Montgomery, and New Orleans, the spokesman said.

The spokesman denied reports that federal officials have set a September deadline for submission of desegregation plans for schools which receive federal aid under the impacted areas school aid program.

The meetings with school board chairmen, school superintendents and state school officials were held to explain the provisions of the law, and the procedure for implementing it, the spokesman said.

"No deadline was set for presentation of any plans," he added. "We do not have any authority to do it. Regulations to implement the law must first be promulgated. These regulations are now being drafted. Before issuance they must receive White House approval. The time for issuance is uncertain."

Other programs administered by the Welfare Department involving financial aid to states and local communities which fall within the provisions of Title 6 were listed as including:

Hospital and health facility construction grants under the Hill-Burton Act; national defense education programs, including student loans; all welfare programs; and the Library Service Act.

Death Lowers Standing Judge

LONDON (AP)—Sir Hugh Beazley, 83, a former Central Criminal Court judge who once heard cases standing up, died Friday, he was 83.

Beazley stood up because lumbago prevented him from sitting down when he was a county court judge in 1936. He later went on to make a name for himself at London's famous Old Bailey Court where he tried 5,000 cases over a period of 11 years.

Wife Of Shriver Eats With Queen

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Eunice Shriver, sister of the late President Kennedy, Friday lunched with Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace.

Mrs. Shriver is in London on a three-day visit to help launch a national appeal for the Society for Mentally Handicapped Children.

State Group On Tidelands Holds Meeting

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen's tidelands advisory group, top Louisiana congressional voices in the question, and Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion held a second session Friday and planned a third later.

The conference sought a starting point to resume negotiations with the federal government on exactly where Louisiana's offshore boundary should be drawn. At stake: some $650 million held in escrow by the federal government from oil and gas revenues produced in the disputed tidelands region.

Carlos Spahit, the governor's executive secretary, said studies would continue and a third conference would be called in two or three weeks.

"The group requested some additional statistical information," he said, "such as actual production in a number of offshore areas now and prospects for future production."

The meeting followed a report from a leading Louisiana Republican that Sen. Barry Goldwater — if elected president — would favor a tidelands settlement.

Spahit said the announcement from San Francisco by Charlton Lyons, Shreveport oil man and state GOP chairman, could be interpreted as meaning that Goldwater might sign a law giving the state more of its offshore area.

Asked whether the Goldwater view was considered in the meeting, Spahit said, "No, as I understand that, he said he would sign a bill giving the state more tidelands area if Congress passed it."

At last month's meeting, the group recommended the state resume negotiations immediately with the federal government.

The U.S. Supreme Court has held that Louisiana is entitled to the royalties in the area three miles outward from its ragged coastline into the Gulf. But state and federal officials have been unable to agree on what constitutes the Louisiana coast.

England Begins Campaign To Aid Unwed Fathers

LONDON (AP) — A giant stride toward equality of the sexes was announced Friday: a sort of rescue campaign for unmarried fathers.

A main objective will be to save the swains from being bullied into loveless shotgun weddings by the parents of the girls involved.

As a start, the Anglican Church Diocesan Moral Welfare Council of Essex County has appointed Roy Demery, 33, a social worker, as a full-time welfare worker in the unmarried father field.

"Unmarried fathers," said Demery, "must be helped, not neglected and looked down on."

"The fact that a girl is having his baby obviously weighs heavily on many a man, especially if he is not in a position to marry her."

"Some are so badly hit that they let their careers slide and sink into a useless, pointless existence."

"Often they are bullied into weddings by angry parents. This should not happen if the couple don't love each other."

Demery estimated there were 1,000 unmarried fathers in Essex County alone. He will trace them down through the Unmarried Mothers Department of the County Council.

Violet McLaren, who heads the Unmarried Mothers Department, explained:

"We have far too much work among the girls, so many material and psychological problems, to be able to help the men as well. But believe me, they need help too."

Police Activity Reported Quiet In Twin Cities

Police activity was quiet in the Twin Cities and Ouachita Parish Friday with no major crimes or arrests reported by local law enforcement officials.

Booked on a simple battery charge by Monroe authorities was Richard H. Raymond, 35, 702 Lakeshore St., after he surrendered at Monroe City Hall.

Robert Lee Little, 18, 3511 Pippin St., was booked on a theft charge after his arrest at 3:45 p.m. Friday.

Absentee Voting Will End Today

The deadline for absentee voting is noon today being held in the basement of the courthouse.

Thus far 61 persons have cast absentee ballots for the July 25 Democratic primary. Seven posts from six wards on the Ouachita Parish School board are being voted on. Wards 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 each have one post up to be decided on by the voters.

Two positions from Ward 10 have to be filled.

U.S. Withdraws
Passport From Diplomat's Wife

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Eleanor Philby, American wife of the "third man" in the British Burgess-MacLean spy case, has returned to the United States and has been "tentatively" deprived of her U.S. passport, the Immigration Service Office here announced Friday.

A spokesman for the service said Mrs. Philby's passport had been withdrawn "at the request of the Department of State" on her arrival here June 30 to visit her daughter, Ann Brewer, 15.

Mrs. Philby came here from the Soviet Union where her husband, former British diplomat H. A. R. (Kim) Philby took refuge in January, 1963, in the face of growing evidence that he was involved in the Burgess-MacLean spy ring. Mrs. Philby joined her husband in Moscow last October.

Group To Work
For Goldwater

Plans are being made for a "complete and comprehensive" organization in the Fifth District to work for the election as president of Ariz. Sen. Barry Goldwater, nominated as the Republican candidate in November.

Announcing the proposed formation of the group Friday was W. G. Haynes Jr., director of the Fifth District Republican Action Council.

He indicated strong local and area interest in practical support of Goldwater's politically conservative program.

Haynes noted that persons can register as Republicans without any loss of voting privileges whatsoever.

Air Force Halts
Reds Offensive

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Ministry of National Defense said Friday the royal Lao air force had halted a Communist Pathet Lao offensive on Muong Soui, the last neutralist stronghold in central Laos 13 miles west of the Plain of Jars.

The air force, using T28s converted to fighter-bombers, flew repeated bombing and strafing sorties against enemy troops in the Phou Kout Hill position 11 miles east of Muong Soui.

Major Communist thrust on Muong Soui would come from the Phou Kout area.

MOTHERS, SISTERS

Boy Scouts Outing Attracts Women

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — One would think a national jamboree of 52,000 Boy Scouts would be strictly a man's world—but it's not so.

Many hundreds of women—mothers, sisters and just curious sightseers—are roaming the roads and valleys of historic Valley Forge with their menfolk, watching the scouts and their leaders at work and at play.

"Jamboree is a toughening up time for some," says chief scout executive Joseph A. Brunton Jr., "a camping experience for others and an experience in group living for all."

Officially, the jamboree opened its week-long stand Friday. And the scouts began the routine that will last until the encampment ends next Thursday night: reveille at 7 a.m. followed by a prayer period. Taps is at 10:20 p.m.

A mammoth "Profiles in Heritage" pageant is the opening night feature with a cast of 6,000 backed up by a scout chorus of 1,600 and a 150-piece band.

The show, in an outdoor arena which seats 70,000, depicts the founding and development of the United States.

Neither participants nor spectators, as they mingle along the highways and byways, appear to mind the searing 90-degree heat and steamy humidity. There's just too much to watch to think about the weather.

And swapping, of course, never stops from dawn to dusk.

A scout will give anything to get anything—anytime, anywhere.

Philip Stanton, 18, Buffalo Lake, Minn., makes a typical comment: "I'm going to do as much as I can while I'm here. It's just great to be here."

Adds T. Clair Sunde, 15, Stewart, Minn.: "you bump into boys from foreign countries (scouts are here from 44 nations) and I like to decipher what they are saying, and get my ideas across to them."

Johnson Flies
To LBJ Ranch
After Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson flew off to his Texas ranch Friday—nearly 24 hours after the intricate machinery involved in presidential travel had been fully cranked up on the chance of a departure Thursday night.

Johnson left Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland in midafternoon, aboard a 10-passenger Air Force jetstar transport. He was bound direct for his LBJ Ranch, near Johnson City, Tex., for a weekend stay.

Many presidential aides had expected Johnson to make the trip Thursday night. Full preparations had been made then. However, these efforts proved to be premature—not unusual in the light of Johnson's penchant for making last-minute decisions on personal travel.

Mrs. Johnson, who flew to Missouri earlier in the day to visit the Harry S. Truman Library at Independence, was expected to join the President at the ranch.

The chief executive, who took along what press secretary George E. Reedy described as "weekend reading and reports," is expected to fly back to Washington on Sunday afternoon.

Northeast Lists
Top Freshmen
Test Scorers

Another list of outstanding freshmen on college entrance examinations given at Northeast Louisiana State College this summer was announced Friday by H. R. Sigler, director of the college's testing and guidance program.

Scoring highest among beginning freshmen on the School and College Ability Test (SCAT) was Edith Carol Pevehouse, graduate of Bastrop High School.

Others ranking in the "top ten" announced by Sigler are Julia Mingyonne Alexander, also of Bastrop High School; Margaret Elaine Butler of Neville High, Monroe; Laura Irene Campbell of Bolton High, Alexandria; Martin Eldridge Cloessner Jr. of Block High, Jonesboro; Norma Josephine Coltharp of Waverly and Tallulah High School.

Charlotte Gwen Crockett of Columbia and Caldwell Parish High School; Catherine Sue Hollenshead of Urama and LaSalle High School; Robert Gary Holt of Neville High, Monroe, and George William Meredith of Urama and LaSalle High School.

Judge Cuts Jail Terms In Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — U.S. District Judge William East drastically reduced the prison terms Friday of two men convicted of kidnaping Frank Sinatra Jr. The action made both men eligible for parole at the discretion of the parole board.

Joseph Clyde Amsler and Barry Worthington Keenan, both 23, had been sentenced to life imprisonment plus 75 years at the conclusion of their trial March 7. Each was convicted on six counts for abducting young Sinatra from a Lake Tahoe motel Dec. 8 for $240,000 ransom.

East reduced sentences for each man to 24 years and 5 months.

A third defendant, John Irwin, 43, previously was sentenced to 16 years and eight months in prison.

"I would like to reiterate my sincere and deep regret for this incident," Keenan commented when asked if he had anything to say. He said he was especially sorry for "the burden that was put on my parents and to a lesser degree some of my friends, and the embarrassment it has caused Frank Sinatra Jr. and his parents, too."

Keenan, according to trial testimony, was the kidnap mastermind.

Since imposition of sentence, Amsler and Keenan have been under psychiatric study at Springfield, Mo.

East reduced the life sentence for the actual kidnap to 25 years less seven months the defendants were in custody. This was count two of the grand jury indictment.

Under terms of the original sentence, the defendants would not have been eligible for parole for at least seven years. In effect, the ruling today made them immediately eligible, or whenever the parole board feels they can go free.

East, visiting judge from Portland, Ore., who frequently was criticized by the defense counsel for his conduct of the case, said that in reducing the terms he was providing a "sentence of hope."

'Simple Simon' Play Runs Due Today, Sunday

"Simple Simon," a children's production which opened Friday, will give two additional runs, today and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane.

The play opens the fourth annual Summer Theatrical Festival, jointly sponsored by Northeast Louisiana State College and the Little Theatre of Monroe.

Reservations may be made in person or by calling the Playhouse box office (323-1324) from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Tickets also will be sold at the door if space is available. Admission is 75 cents for children and $1 for adults.

George Brian, associate professor of speech and drama at Northeast State, is directing "Simple Simon," a comedy-fantasy with colorful setting which came out of a story book.

The production features unique costumes, even a nightshirt, dress and long underwear, which can be seen and heard dancing and talking. Then there is the tree which grows, is chopped down, grows again and flashes lights.

Also featured are dancing and singing. Director Brian has been assisted in this phase of the performance by Ronnie Brothers, music major and accompanist for Northeast's College Concert Choir during the regular term.

Typical for the children's play will be something special during intermission. The season there will be plenty of punch on the house.

Koreans Jail 11 Suspected Of Espionage

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korea's Central Intelligence Agency announced Friday the arrest of 11 Koreans accused of spying for Communist North Korea.

Two were identified as principals of primary schools in Kyongsang, southeast of Seoul. The agency said the Communist underground group was headed by Chang Chai-soo, 50, once a prosecutor in Communist North Korea.

Gov. Scranton Plans Vacation In Upper N.Y.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, defeated aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination, canceled plans Friday to go to Hawaii for a vacation with his family.

Scranton's press secretary, Jack Conny, said the Scranton family plans instead to go to Little Moose Lake, N.Y., for a rest. Scranton will return to the state capital at Harrisburg August 1.

ONE ROCKET SHOT

Air Force Orbits Three Satellites

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The Air Force shot three satellites into space with one rocket Friday and sent two of them speeding toward orbit 63,000 miles from earth where they will keep watch for any sneak atomic tests above the atmosphere.

The triple launching bettered a Russian shot last Saturday when Soviet scientists orbited two satellites, Electron 3 and 4, with one rocket.

Some tricky deep space maneuvering will be required to set America's two newest atomic detection satellites, each weighing 2½ pounds, on the desired path.

A small rocket was to be triggered later Friday night aboard one of the satellites in an effort to drive it into a near circular path around earth.

Then scientists will wait until Sunday when the second satellite loops back to exactly the right spot before trying a similar maneuver with it.

Hours after blastoff radio checks showed the satellites were working perfectly.

"Everything looks good," the Air Force said.

The third moonlet carried aloft was a small 4½ pounder. It was set in an orbit ranging from 230 miles to 63,000 miles from earth and assigned the task of collecting additional data on the Van Allen radiation belts.

The two watchdog satellites were programmed to circle earth 100,000 miles apart every 96 hours.

Friday's space venture had been cloaked in secrecy until

Speedy O. Long Assails Rival In Jena Speech

JENA (Special) — Speedy O. Long told a crowd in his hometown here Friday night that his opponent in the race for the eighth district seat in Congress, incumbent Gillis Long, has "a record that conforms to the NAACP, Martin Luther King and all those northerners left-wing, radical groups."

Speaking on Jena's main street, the candidate said Gillis Long "hasn't been honest with us."

Speedy Long repeated his charge that Gillis Long voted to pack the House Rules Committee. "By his voting to pack the House Rules Committee, he helped pass the civil rights bill," Speedy Long charged.

Accompanying the candidate here were Mrs. George S. Long, widow of the late congressman; Bill Lambdin, commissioner of streets and parks in Alexandria, and Champ Baker and C. H. (Sammy) Downs, also of Alexandria. Baker also spoke and called a petition being circulated by Gillis Long for a national referendum on the civil rights law "meaningless."

GOP Negroes To Form Group Within Party

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A group of Negro delegates and alternate delegates to the Republican National Convention announced Friday they are forming their own group within the GOP.

George G. Fleming, an alternate delegate from New Jersey, was named temporary chairman of the group. Fleming walked out of the GOP National Convention on Wednesday night just as South Carolina was casting the votes which gave Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona a first-ballot nomination.

Fleming said the new organization would support Republican candidate for state and lothe government suddenly reversed itself last week and lifted the wraps from the project.

The two atomic detection moonlets were similar to, but more efficient than, a pair of satellites launched last October after America signed a treaty with Russia agreeing to halt further nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Three more launchings of twin nuclear detection satellites were planned by the Defense Department to give the nation an operational system to guard against test ban cheating.

"Everything looks good," the Air Force said.

The third moonlet carried aloft was a small 4½ pounder. It was set in an orbit ranging from 230 miles to 63,000 miles.

Bank Hostage Relates Story Of Robbery

MANSFIELD, La. (AP) — A young bank employee held as a bank robber's hostage Friday for several hours recounted his experiences in a telephone interview.

Robert Newland, 20, of Wells, Tex., said that when he was ordered at gunpoint into a pickup truck by the robber "a long story" began.

"We left Wells and drove toward Nacogdoches," he said. "Then we abandoned the pickup and got a '63 model four-door Ford from this woman (Mrs. Joe Castleberry who was released unharmed) and drove toward Mansfield."

"We passed through Logansport, Benson and some more towns."

"After we got to Mansfield, we went to about three stores for him to buy some clothing. Then we went to the motel, had a cup of coffee and I eat (sic) a hamburger."

Asked how he was treated during the hours he was a hostage, Newland replied:

"He treated me fair, I guess, and I cooperated with him all the way."

He quoted the robber as telling him once during the trip, "just call me Joe."

During the shopping tour of Mansfield, Newland said, "Joe" also bought a suitcase in which to put the bank loot. He agreed that $15,000 or "a little more" was about the amount of the loot. He said it consisted of bills of $20, $10, $5 with some $5 bills.

After they ate at the motel, Newland continued, the robber "had me rent a room and he went there and changed clothes."

"Then he had me tie up my feet and legs, and then he tied my hands and tied me to the bed. He called a cab then and he left with the money in his suitcase."

"I managed to get loose in about 15 minutes, I guess, and then I called the sheriff."

Newland said he had not talked to the federal bureau of investigation "yet."

Asked how he felt after the experience, he chuckled and said, "I feel a little weak."

cal office, including Negroes, who demonstrate continued allegiance to the fight for civil rights.

He said they would also seek to increase representation by Negro delegates in future Republican conventions.

About 16 of the 41 Negro delegates and alternates to the convention attended Friday's meeting, Fleming said.

Goldwater Flies To Homecoming In Arizona City

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater came home to Arizona Friday night as the Republican presidential nominee and the band played "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."

Upwards of 2,000 persons packed Sky Harbor Airport at dusk when Goldwater alighted from the chartered two-engine airliner which brought him from his convention victory at San Francisco.

Echoing the mood of his convention acceptance speech Thursday night, Goldwater said there are people all over the nation who "don't want to go backwards... don't want to be stagnated by government control."

The Arizona senator paid tribute to his 50 years in this Southwestern state. He said he has found in his travels "a rebirth of this spirit which built the west" — the spirit which, he said, also built the east but which Easterners sometimes seem to forget.

He said there is "a growing refusal" to accept the idea that the nation must bow down to Communism, and a rejection of the idea that "patriotism is somehow wrong."

Negro Youths Attack, Rob Subway Riders

NEW YORK (AP)—Violence erupted on two New York subway lines Friday afternoon as gangs of Negro youths beat and robbed white riders, police said.

In the first incident, police said six youths in a gang of 25 punched and knocked down William Greene, 51, a Yonkers pharmacist, then stole his wallet containing $100 and an $85 wrist watch.

That occurred on a subway in Washington Heights at 1:30 p.m. Fifteen other riders watched helplessly as
